AREAS TO LOOK AT TO IMPROVE PROFITABILITY

1. Use 2-feed system for milk cows. Fresh cows get high density feed for peak lactation, and tail enders are fed least cost ration.
2. Feed more forages – especially to mid and late lactation cows. This will reduce amount of feed needed to balance the feeding program.
3. Don't keep extra heifers – it costs approximately $350 per year to feed each heifer. Milking cows x 60% gives you total number of heifers birth to fresh. Example: 50 milk cows x 60% = 30 heifers total.
4. Improve heifer growing program for the generally neglected yearling heifer. Bigger "spring of rib" heifers will eat more forage and give a bigger milk check during their first lactation. Heifers need to average 17,000-20,000 lbs. of milk for their first lactation.
5. Know your actual costs – a good farm records system that separates crops from dairy will show you actual crop costs/profits and milk sales costs/profits.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Mar 17, 1999

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Fund buying on the Boards was a major support factor in higher grain and soybean bids today. Very good export sales of wheat and corn over- night also pushed bids higher. Wheat 1 to 4 cents higher. Corn steady to 2 cents higher. Sorghum 2 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 6 cents lower. Wheat bids were slightly higher after substantial wheat orders by the CCC for donation programs. Additional strength came from active fund buying on the Board. Corn enjoyed some export business overnight and with wheat higher, corn bids were boosted. Also, an announcement that a new CRP program could be implemented in time for the 1999-2000 crop year, underpinned corn bids. Soybean gains were extended due to fund buying on the Board and news that Argentina reduced its soybean production estimate. An earlier estimate of 19.2 million metric tons was changed to 17.0-17.5 million metric tons.

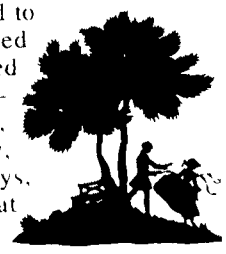
The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

MARCH 22-28, 1999

ANNUNCIATION, MARCH 25.

PALMY DAYS TO YOU

March 28 is Palm Sunday, so hope for clear weather or the prognostication for the coming year will be poor The day marks the arrival of Christ in Jerusalem, when the crowds paved his way with palm branches The palm tree, believed to grow faster for being weighted down, has come to be associated with firm conviction and resolution In the time of the gladiators, a palm branch signaled victory, leading to the term "palmy days," which signified a time of great prosperity and happiness



To rejoice in the prosperity of another is to partake of it. – William Austin

TIP OF THE WEEK

Take indoor plants outside during a warm spring rain to shower off the winter's dust and restore the leaves.

VEGETARIAN STROGANOFF

- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 2 pounds mushrooms, sliced
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/2 cup white wine (optional)

Makes 4 servings

THE OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Friday is the best or worst day of the week (weatherwise).

As Friday, so the Sunday

If the weather is not clear on Palm Sunday, it means a bad year

When everything is eaten at the table, it indicates continued clear weather.

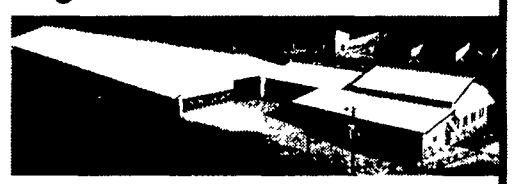
The Building you want.
The Lease you need.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing

OPINION

Sudden Sniffing Death More Serious Than You Think

This plea applies to everyone And the agricultural community is not exempt

We're talking about the recently well publicized examples of inhalant abuse by young people ages 9 to 17 Products such as model airplane glue, nail polish remover, cleaning fluids, hair spray, gasoline, the propellant in aerosol whipped cream, spray paint, fabric protector, air freshener, air conditioner fluid (freon), cooking spray, and correction fluid are used. The potential for farm youth to be caught up in this popular way to "get high," is even more evident than for city kids with inexpensive household products found in any mother's kitchen cupboards.

Farm kids have easy access to gasoline by removing the cap from pick-up-trucks or tractors In addition, milk-house and barn cleaning chemicals are of industrial strength and thus more potent than even regular household products These products are sniffed, snorted, bagged fumes inhaled from a plastic bag or "huffed" (inhalant-soaked rag, sock or roll of toilet paper in the mouth) to achieve a high. Inhalants are also sniffed directly from the container.

According to national surveys, inhaling dangerous products is becoming one of the most widespread "drug" problems in the country It is more popular than marijuana with young people For as little as $1 50 (lunch money) youth can buy a can of air freshener More than a million young people used inhalants to get high just last year. By the time a student reaches the 8th grade, one in five will have used inhalants.

All young people experiment, but inhalant abuse can cause serious injury or death with EVEN ONE USAGE Most parents are in the dark regarding the popularity and dangers of inhalant use Even fewer know the deadly effects the poisons in these products have on the brain and body when inhaled or "huffed " It's like playing Russian Roulette The user can die the first, 10th, or 100th time a product is misused as an inhalant. The wrong choice of aerosol can starve the body of oxygen, which can lead to unconsciousness and death, commonly refereed to as sudden sniffing death (SSD).

Margaret, mother of Keith Wagner who died in a car accident because of inhalant abuse, wants all parents to be aware of this danger to our young people.

We do too

If you are a parent, take a few minutes to investigate whether your children may be experimenting with dangerous (though perfectly legal) chemicals If you are someone with siblings or other young people that you care about, please talk to them If you are a farm or rural young person who is experimenting with inhalants in the hay mow, corn crib, or out behind the barn, please don't do it again Talk to an adult you trust, and make yourself accountable Have someone regularly ask you if you have faithfully abstained from huffing or inhaling chemicals This is more serious than you think

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Develop A Business Plan

According to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, as you develop a management plan and budget, use realistic and conservative figures Make sure your management plan cash flows, even in adverse time when purchased feed costs or interest rates go up or when commodity prices or crop yields drop

If your plan does not cash flow, do not fool yourself by simply changing the numbers to make them look good on paper You will need to search for more profitable alternatives When the numbers cash flow well enough to meet your needs, put the plan into action and make it work in real life

If you used realistic numbers and have a good plan that cash flows on paper, if you keep your efforts focused and pursue your plan with determination, staying on course and meeting timetables and if you make the figures work as planned, you will succeed

To Manage Cows As An Asset

As you think about managing your herd, keep some of these basic thoughts in mind Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, reminds us your dairy herd is a big investment Cows are living, working assets They are your primary source of income So protect your investment while protecting your income base

Manage your cows so they may do the job you expect them and reward you with a decent profit Young stock are your cows of tomorrow Tomorrow's cows will never be any better than the young stock you raise or purchase

Manage your heifers and your cows to protect their lungs, intestinal linings, feet and legs and udders so you do not seriously or permanently impair their future performance and your profits

To Produce Low Cost Milk

Produce the maximum amount of the cheapest increment of milk possible, states Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent There are some overhead costs associated with dairying

Every stall in your barn has a cost, whether filled or not We refer to these as the DIRTI 5 (depreciation, interest, repairs, taxes and insurance) There also are some basic cow costs Once you place the cow in a stall, you incur another group of costs that are fixed no matter how much milk the cow produces Some of these costs are labor, herd replacements, breeding, testing, veterinary, dairy supplies and feed for cow's maintenance and pregnancy

It will take a certain amount of milk to cover these basic cow costs The amount required will vary from farm to farm and from year to year, depending on milk production costs and milk prices Then you have the cost of feeding the cow to produce the amount of milk to break even

Once we pass the break even level we enter into the least cost, maximum profit zone The next 10, 20, 30 or more pounds of milk is the cheapest milk you will ever produce About the only cost associated with this incremental increase is the extra feed to produce the extra milk One pound of feed dry matter has the capability of producing about two to two and half pounds of milk Many times you do not have to feed expensive feed to get this milk , just more of what the cow is already receiving, assuming the ration is properly balanced

Feather Prof.'s Footnote "Champions are made by dreaming more than others think is practical "

A NEW BEGINNING
March 21, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 3:1-21
Devotional Reading:
I Corinthians 15:7-22

In the 17th century, when Oliver Cromwell and the Puritans violently wrestled Britain from Charles I, they tried Archbishop Laud for treason. Of all the major crimes of which he was accused, he was able to prove his innocence. But the Puritans said he should be put to death anyway, because his many minor crimes put together equaled the major crime of treason. "This is the first time in my life," said the outraged Laud, that I ever heard men declare that 200 black cats make one black horse."

From the pronouncements of some Christians, one might easily get the impression that the gospel is essentially about judgment and punishment. Like the Puritans of old, some Christians are more likely to be defined by what they condemn than what they embrace. To be sure, judgment is part of the gospel, but it is God's judgment of us, not our judgment of each other.

The New Testament is unequivocally clear — from Jesus' warning to "Judge not, that you be not judged," (Mt. 7:1) to Paul's searing question: "Why do you pass judgment on your brother?" (Romans 14:10), to John's statement of the gospel in miniature: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. For God sent his Son into the world, not to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through him" (Jn. 3:17).

HE CAME BY NIGHT

John is demonstrating the superiority of the gospel over the religious legal ruler of the Jews. Nicodemus was a distinguished member of the old order come to meet and discuss with Jesus the pioneer of the new order. Though he came secretly by night, Nicodemus appears to be both sincere and respectful.

As he so often does in John's gospel, Jesus responds to a question in an unexpected way, cutting to the heart of the matter. "Truly, truly I say to you, unless one is born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God" (3:3). It seems that Nicodemus did not understand that Jesus is speaking about spiritual rebirth, not physical. So Jesus points to two levels of existence: the sphere of flesh and the other of the spirit. When he calls for us to be reborn he is speaking of spiritual rebirth, a rebirth that only God can give us.

TRANSFORMED WITHIN

For Nicodemus this is so different from Pharasaism, where a man earns salvation by his adherence to the law. But the gospel is dependent, not upon works of the law but the grace of God. It results, not in the control of a person's outward acts, but a transformation from within. As Joseph Alleine puts it, "Conversion is no repairing of the old building; but takes all down and erects a new structure."

The Pharasaic legal system sought to control behavior through rules. The gospel, on the other, was one of transformation. Jesus likened the Spirit through which transformation is effected to the wind. This was a play on words since in both Greek and Hebrew the term for "wind" and "spirit" were the same words. Rather than being subject to human will, the Spirit is spontaneous and unpredictable. "The wind blows where it wills, and you hear the sound of it, but you do not know whence it comes or wither it goes; so it is with everyone born of the Spirit" (3:8). A new beginning is always possible.

So, what happened to Nicodemus? Did he become converted John doesn't tell us and none of the other three Evangelists even mention him. But, later in John 7 he defends Jesus from unjust accusations and in 19:39 he joins with Joseph of Arimathea in providing Jesus with a decent burial. Both of these actions required considerable courage. I believe he made a new beginning.

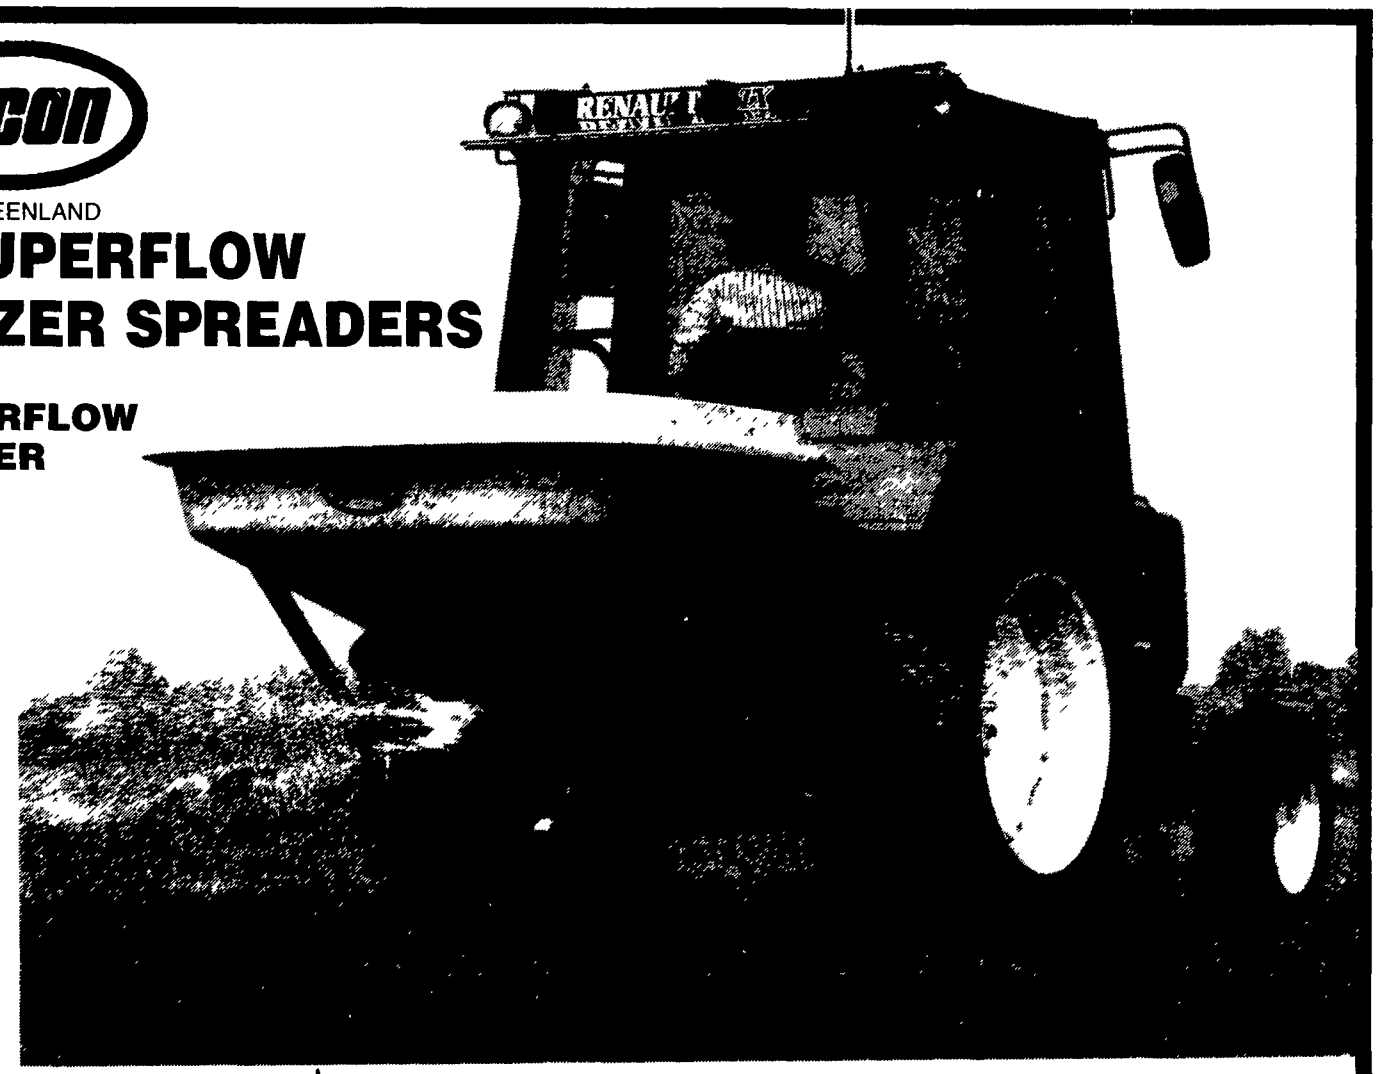
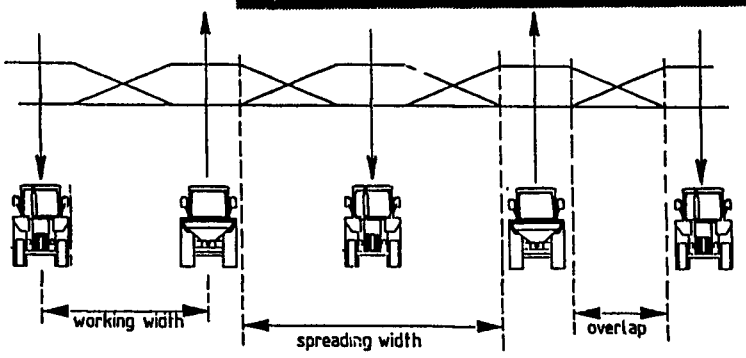
SUPERFLOW FERTILIZER SPREADERS



Vicon SUPERFLOW SEEDER

Spreaders are the most accurate broadcast spreaders in the world. The unique pendulum action keeps the spread pattern close to the rear of the machine while at the same time providing a symmetrical pattern on both sides.



The pattern allows "back and forth" as well as "around and around" operation. The "truncated" pattern offsets inaccurate overlap problems, eliminating streaking.

Vicon

Seeder spreaders are easily calibrated for extremely accurate performance.

Rust free polyester hoppers, "DURA-COAT" enamel on painted components with stainless steel metering plates, precision adjustments, and a variety of spouts for a multitude of applications have earned Vicon Superflow seeder spreaders a world-wide reputation as the premier broadcast spreader.

Versatile Vicon spreaders band material in vineyards, orchards and nurseries, as well as spread lime, and salt and sand for winter use.

Breaks up tractor tracks to increase yields

Lorenz Wac-a-Trac

- Studies show tractor track compaction can reduce yields up to 25%
- Wac-a-Trac won t hamper tight turns, it raises to clear tongue of attachment
- Center section and special points to renovate pastures, clean shelterbelts
- 'A' frame hitch can be added to pull drills or corn planters
- Leaves a much finer seedbed for planting
- Seeds germinate and plants grow evenly
- Eliminates the image of tractor tracks in the crop as it grows

'Zero Potential' For Runoff Pollution From Lancaster's Award-Winning Conservation Farm

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — It's an almost unheard of task for any conservation farmer: develop a bunch of methods so there is no chance — in other words, zero potential — for polluted runoff to enter streams bordering a property.

That daunting task fell successfully on one such farm.

For their far-reaching efforts to preserve soil, protect the environment, and maintain a large-scale Lancaster County dairy, Red Knob Farm from Wakefield, Little Britain Township, was honored Thursday night as the Lancaster County Conservation District Cooperator of the Year at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

Attended by more than 250 conservation cooperators, agribusinesses, and friends of the district, the district's 48th annual dinner meeting and banquet honored Red Knob, composed of the Young family, and others for environmental stewardship and commitment to conservation.

Gerald R. Whiteside, Chesapeake Bay technician with the district, who helped present the award, noted that Red Knob Farm "has taken on the enormous task of developing and committing to a goal of zero potential for polluted runoff entering the streams that border the property," he said.

How did they do it?

Two large sediment control basins lie on either side of the farm. The farm uses 2,500 feet of grassed diversion and 1,200 feet of gradient terrace. That combination conveys any runoff leaving the cropland to one of two control basins.

Some think the setup complicated. Simply put, during a rain event, any manure that may run off carried through the pipe outlet terrace system or that seeps into the subsurface drainage will end up at one control point in either of the two basins. The basins are situated in such a way to allow for the "creation of a wetland environment as an added benefit and filter."

The dairy, a farm partnership owned by Henry Young and two sons Matthew and David, irrigate the liquid manure. A combination of primary and secondary discharges ensure that any runoff during irrigation goes through a series of underground pipes, grassed diversions, and waterways back to one of two basins located below the second-stage lagoon, at which point it can be pumped back into the lagoon, according to Whiteside. If there is a large rain or mechanical failure during irrigation, any polluted runoff will be controlled and directed back to the storage facility.

According to Whiteside, the Red Knob Dairy partnership began in 1974 when the family established a new dairy operation on a farm owned by Henry. The partnership then leased the farm for 10 years until it was purchased by the

March 25, at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center.

Geesaman, who operates his own construction business in Hummelstown, spoke about the work on the farm in the decade since he's owned it.

Photos reproduced here show how far the farm has come in its restoration.

Where the building once had missing doors and no manure storage area, now the bar has new doors, new paint, a new roofed manure storage area, a refurbished feedlot, and a whole new outlook.

"We were cooperators with the district almost from the word go," he said. A lot of soil was moved and a lot of work was done to restore the building. New roofs were installed. High-tensile and wood fencing was put in place.

To build a retaining wall for excess manure and to keep manure from draining haphazardly into a field, Geesaman used old telephone poles stacked up on the side like a loghouse. Geesaman used to dump the manure on the side and stack it, but when asked by the district a few years ago if he wanted to build a manure storage area, Geesaman agreed.

In the late spring of 1996, at the same time he enlarged the size of the barn, Geesaman installed a cement-floored and roofed manure area. The storage area was installed with a conservation district cost-share program. He has four months of manure storage with the structure. There he stores the manure separately from his 45-head beef cow/calf and finishing herd and some poultry manure from a nearby farm.

Geesaman mixes the chicken and steer manure as a he spreads it. He regularly conducts soil tests to ensure nutrients are used properly, following the farm's nutrient management plan.

In the reconstructed barnyard, he uses a siphon tank and spreader bar which allows nutrients running off the feedlot to be captured and spread evenly with a grass filter area.

Where the soil pH used to range from 5.1-5.2, now, after successive liming, the pH measures 6.7. He will put another one ton per acre on to bring it up to neutral levels.

Geesaman said that he purchased 137 acres of the farm in 1988. Since then 26 acres have gone to a new sewer plant line. The farm retained the 14- x 45-foot concrete stave upright silo, which doesn't have an unloader.

On the beef herd, Geesaman said he has about six cows and one bull with the balance made of steers. He obtains them from auctions and nearby farms, taking them from 700 pounds to finishing weight. He purchases them locally, some from the Greencastle Livestock Sales and some from New Holland. He prefers the Charolais/Limousin cattle, a mixed herd that is easy to handle.

Geesaman, who operates John Geesaman Construction, also sells freezer beef. Last year he took 16 of his steers to Groff's in Elizabethtown for processing.

When Geesaman purchased the farm, there was some row cropping, mostly corn. There was no alfalfa, just timothy and orchardgrass. Now Geesaman maintains 11 acres in pasture, 28 acres of corn, 12 acres of alfalfa, 28 acres of timothy hay, and five acres of mixed hay (orchardgrass). Rotation is corn/oats/wheat/hay/soybeans and corn/small grains/hay/soybeans.

He also grows about 27 acres of small grain, this year mostly oats and soybeans. What he doesn't use for his cattle he sells.

The steers are fed corn, oats, barley, and wheat. He obtained some oats and wheat mixed by a neighbor. For supplemental feed, he uses wrapped alfalfa baleage. He sells quite a bit of hay, he said, to the local horse farms.

He grazes his cattle mostly in sacrifice-type lots.

The most significant conservation practices in place on the farm, with a Berks shale-clay type soil, are the contours and drainage ditch systems.

"When I purchased the farm, there were water problems out in the field," he said. In addition to the diversions, some drainage pipe was installed. A majority of the acres are in contour. The previous owner used to simply law out strips "up and down the hills," said Geesaman. The conservation plan fixed that.

Geesaman employs a mixture of tillage practices at the farm, including no-till, minimum till, and conventional. He said he no-tills into sod fields. He conventual tills corn or soybeans into grass.

The challenge of the clay and shale fields vary — ridges can be difficult to manage. Geesaman has moved topsoil on the ridges. Depending on the rains, he said, the fields can be either too wet or too dry. Before he purchased the farm, because of the fencing problems, cattle would cross regularly into neighboring fields.

Geesaman installed high-tensile fence with all-wood white posts and those problems have disappeared.

In the early 1970s, Geesaman became sold on farming as a lifestyle when he rented a dairy farm in Fredericksburg for three and a half years. He milked 45 cows. About the same time, he built a house that is still his home in Hummelstown. John and wife Karen lived in the basement of the house for about three years until the second floor was complete.

At the time, the development of which the house is almost a part of used to be simply a dirt road. Geesaman maintained steers "right up against the yard," he said. "I used to raise a couple of pigs — at that time, the hogs paid the taxes on the house."

At one time Geesaman crop farmed and worked in construction. He went from the dairy farm to full-time construction work, building houses, working as a mason and then becoming a general contractor.

Since John renovated the farm, people have told him that "they've never seen crops grown like they've seen since I've moved there," he said. "I'm doing the best I can. I feel honored more for this than any kind of money, for (the district) to pick what I've done. When they thank you, it comes from the heart."

After building a spec house, word of his work spread until he became a full-fledged developer.

Since then he has several lots in various areas under development, many "mid-grade" homes priced from $200,000-$250,000.

"This will sound strange, but I don't like to see farms cut up," he said. He is saddened by the loss of good soil, especially on one subdivision he purchased, but the owner was going to sell for development anyway.

"If I didn't do it, another would," he said.

He believes that too many developers do not subdivide the properties carefully. Local township ordinances dictate that each lot must be at least one acre in size. Geesaman said it is important to "cut it right."

He said, "I love farming and I'd like to see land stay as a farm." That's why he didn't divide the farm near Grantville into lots.

The conservation award is a personal honor for Geesaman, he said. "The conservation district said I was easy to work with," he said. "I knew what I wanted and they knew what I wanted. We could work together for both of our benefit."

As a contractor, Geesaman said that he answers a lot of questions. Some of them ask what they consider to be "dumb questions."

He said, "There's no such thing as a dumb question. I would have asked a lot of them, because I don't think they're dumb."

Many people don't have a concept of what a new house looks like. But Geesaman, who incorporates what he sees of other farms on his own, can see the "size and settings of things," he said.

"I can visualize something real quick, with size and grades. I know how to set a house to get the most out of it." He enjoys working with his clients, which include retired farmers.

"Many want to build a rancher or a Cape Cod," he said. "The ones retired want a ranch house — they're tired of climbing steps."

Geesaman farms with wife Karen. They have four children, including Galen, 32; Duane, 30, who lives in the farmhouse; and Warren, 29. The sons are hired for the contracting business. The Geesamans have a daughter, Becky, 26, at home.

Geesaman said Galen works on plumbing, heating and air conditioning and Warren operates a drywall business. Both work with the construction company. Duane installs computer flooring in the New Jersey and Philadelphia areas.

Since John renovated the farm, people have told him that "they've never seen crops grown like they've seen since I've moved there," he said. "I'm doing the best I can.

"I feel honored more for this than any kind of money, for (the district) to pick what I've done. When they thank you, it comes from the heart."

John Geesaman, who operates his own construction business in Hummelstown, spoke about the work on the farm in the decade since he's owned it. The farm was run down when he purchased it more than 10 years ago.

Awards Banquet To Honor Cooperators

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Dauphin County Conservation District members, family, and friends are invited to join the district's annual awards banquet next Thursday, March 25, at 6:30 p.m. here at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center.

The district will honor individuals and groups for their outstanding contributions to the conservation of natural resources.

Roy Maurer, an agricultural science teacher at the Upper Dauphin Area High School, will be recognized as the 1998 Conservation Educator of the Year.

Receiving the Conservation Farmer of the Year Award is John Geesaman of Hummelstown, profiled in this issue of Lancaster Farming.

Twin Cedars Gun Club will receive a special recognition for its forest stewardship. In addition, Samuel Williams of Middletown will be honored for his commitment of time and talents over many faithful years of service to the district.

Feature presenter for the evening is John Page Williams, senior naturalist from the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. In his presentation, titled "The Susquehanna and the Chesapeake: Two Sides of the Same Coin," Williams will focus on the strides conservation efforts and improvements in the Susquehanna River Basin have made to the recovery of the bay. He will share insightful and entertaining stories of life on the Chesapeake Bay.

Williams has been on staff at the Chesapeake Bay Foundation since 1973. He conducts field education, fund raising, and administration for the foundation. He is also the author of two books, "Exploring the Chesapeake In Fishing Boats" and "Chesapeake Almanac."

The special event will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner of turkey and beef in the auditorium of the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center. The center is located at 1451 Peters Mountain Road, two miles north of Dauphin Borough on Rt. 225 between Clarks Creek and Peters Mountain.

Tickets are available from the Dauphin County Conservation District. Cost is $12.50 for adults, $6 for children ages 3-8, and free for children under 3. Ticket deadline is March 22. To purchase a ticket, call the conservation district office weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at (717) 921-8100.

partnership. An additional 70-acre tract adjoining the farm was purchased. The partnership began with 100 cows.

Whiteside said that Henry believed "for three years they ran a circus and then they started running a farm." The dairy has steadily grown at a 7-10 percent rate per year.

Red Knob Dairy has 430 dairy cattle with about 380 milk-producing cows at a herd average of 22,400 pounds. The freestall alleys are cleaned with a flush system. After the alleys are flushed, noted Whiteside, the effluent is passed through a solid separator where the manure solids are separated and hauled to a mulch processor. There it is composted, dried, and bagged to be sold on retail market.

The liquid portion is collected and stored in a settling lagoon, which in turn fills a second-stage lagoon that also collects runoff from the bunker silos. The water from the second-stage lagoon is then recycled through the flush system. The liquid from the settling lagoon is also irrigated onto the cropland through a series of risers and traveling guns.

The second-stage lagoon is also used for irrigation when needed.

The dairy farms 430 acres of corn silage with a rye cover crop, 20 acres of alfalfa/grass mix, 20 acres of grass hay, and 100 acres of managed pasture, said Whiteside. The corn is strictly no-tilled.

After the silage is removed, an intensive rye cover crop is no-tilled into the fields. The rye provides winter cover and is then taken off for forage in the spring.

Cropland is managed through the no-till system, well-placed hay ground, a series of 3,200 feet of

Center For Rural Pa. Investigates Commodity Prices

(Part II)

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Center For Rural Pennsylvania, an agency of the state Legislature, held a hearing early January at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg to collect comments on the cause and effect of low commodity prices.

The Center, chaired by state Rep. Sheila Miller of Berks County, has the purpose of providing information and resources to aid rural communities, as well as the Legislature in it effort to support and protect the state's rural communities.

Across-the-board, and below cost-of-production commodity prices (except for dairy farmers, who at the time were receiving all-time high milk prices while enjoying record low feed prices) have sent economic ripples through rural communities, many of which are dependent upon local agricultural production as the main economic source.

While the cause for the low commodity prices — especially hog prices which bottomed out just prior to the hearing at below Great Depression levels — was widely assumed to have been directly related to the economic failure of countries where commodities were intended to be exported, there was also concern that other factors may have been acting to create decreases in producer prices.

The hearing was held to discover possible solutions at the state level that could help protect Pennsylvania's farming community as a means to protect the state's rural economy and thus the rural community.

This is the second part in a series.

In the first installment, Rep. Miller cited statistics that documented the non-existant profits, and the sharp decline in cash flow to Pennsylvania livestock and grain farmers.

A type of domino effect is assumed to have resulted, because of the obvious reduction in farmer buying power and thus reduced business opportunities to supporting agribusinesses.

It has been reported that every dollar a farmer earns generates several dollars for the local, national, and, more so lately, the global economy. This economic relationship can also be described in terms of the percentage of retail price that gets passed back to the farmer.

Also reported last week, in summary, the president of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council and the executive director testified that independent hog producers were headed for bankrupcty and needed help immediately; that perhaps political leaders could possibly consider some sort of mandatory premium pay for Pennsylvania hog producers (similar to what the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board can do for instate produced, processed and sold beverage milk); and that the United States appears to have the best climate and resources in the world for raising domestic hogs.

It was also reported that there was six months of surplus pork in the domestic industry pipeline, the nation's packing houses were operating at full capacity, and various limitations on the slaughtering industry would prevent any quick increase in slaughtering capacity.

Next to testify at the hearing was a group of four men representing PennAg Industries Association, as well as their respective specific businesses that, in this case, involve supplying independent farmers with feed and crop resources, as well as being involved in integrated production enterprises.

Jim Shirk represented PennAg Industries Association, an organization that represents about 700 agribusinesses involved with commercial feed, grain, fertilizer, pesticide and poultry businesses as well as support services for those industries.

Shirk was joined at the witness table by the organization's vice president, Jim Adams, who is operations manager at Wenger's Feeds Inc., Al Wenger, president of Wenger's Feeds Inc., and Mike Mullady of Purina Mills.

PennAg members range from family business of one or two full-time staff to large businesses employing several hundred employees.

According to Shirk, the issue of low commodity prices is a matter of concern, not only in Pennsylvania, but nationally and internationally as well.

"The solution, likewise, must involve not only Pennsylvania, but also other states, the federal government, and our international trading partners.

"We are operating in a global economy and we can't go back. We must find improved methods of anticipating trade growth, trade demise and associated changes.

"The level of risk in agriculture has increased along with increased sizes needed for economies of production," he said.

"Many companies have dealt with this by establishing various forms of partnerships, contracts, commodity hedging, and innovative pricing arrangements.

"Those who choose to deal with commodity markets as they have in past decades will be increasingly vulnerable to large swings in those markets and financial exposure."

He also said that there are some who have expressed a belief that agribusiness doesn't care about the common family farmer, and that family farms can no longer survive.

"Today, survival in agriculture is based on uniform production, processing schedules, quality assurance, and risk abatement.

"These critical areas are not only the property of agribusinesses. The same factors are now an integral part of virtually every full-time production farm in the United States, regardless of their size or intensity," he said.

"The challenge is developing the proper balance of agribusinesses to the number of production farms necessary for mutual survival.

"To achieve this synergistic relationship, three things must happen," Shirk said.

"First, farmers must be willing to adapt their operations to meet the specific needs of the agribusiness and markets.

"Second, agribusinesses should be willing to look to a larger number of farms to supply their commodities.

"Finally, agribusinesses, retailers, and farmers must be willing to share both the profits and the risk of production equally."

He said that it was important to note that both large and small businesses share in the problem.

"Contracts between integrators and producers have enabled many producers to diversify their operations and sustain themselves and their families with guaranteed income," Shirk said.

"Where contracts exist, any losses that are sustained when prices are low are absorbed by the integrator.

"Small producers have a more difficult time when prices are low because it is more difficult for them to spread out their risk. Producers have grown tired of the investments they have made and the risks they have assumed compared to the returns they have received. Nearly every segment of agriculture is moving toward production systems," he said.

"In spite of the low prices at the farm gate, the cost to the consumer for groceries has not significantly declined. Retailers and grocers must be a part of the solution and be willing to transfer increased profits," Shirk said.

"The pork industry is experiencing many of the same growing pains as the broiler industry 20 years ago," Shirk said. "Gradually, independent producers accepted the reliability of fair contracts and the whole industry has prospered."

Shirk also said that it was understood that the U.S. Department of Agriculture was looking into providing some sort of assistance to the hog industry. That has since been revealed to be an emergency grant to existing pork producers with a cap of $2,500 each.

But Shirk said there is always the possibility that political momentum could building behind a return to a form of federal support programs and that would probably be a mistake.

"One option that is always considered is the creation of artificial price supports," Shirk said. "This option, if considered, will undoubtedly provide an opportunity for lower priced imports (international price received for milk used within the Compact region for Class I, or fluid uses. The Compact authority would also set retail prices on Class I product.

When the market-derived price of Class I milk meets or exceeds the Compact floor price, the producer would receive no benefit from the Compact-set price.

However, when the market value of milk drops below the Compact minimum, producers would not receive less than the floor price, which is to reflect a reasonable cost-of-production.

The minimum retail price would create the margin needed to finance the payments to producers, thereby ensuring the direct support of dairy farmers by consumers in the Compact.

If milk production grew beyond the national rate, dairy farmers in the Compact Region would be assessed a certain amount that would go into an escrow account and be used to finance the removal of some product by the federal Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), which had been functioning that way prior to the changes outlined in the 1996 Farm Bill.

A significant portion of the wording of the proposed legislation is mandated by the federal Compact legislation.

Included is the authorization that each participating state have no less than three, and up to five, representatives appointed to serve on the Compact commission.

An amendment approved Wednesday restricts Pennsylvania's Compact representation to three, and instructs that those three be the same three people who serve on the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB).

The PMMB has oversight of the state's dairy industry to protect consumers and farmers, by auditing milk dealers and tracking the uses of milk and the pay farmers receive.

The PMMB also has the authority to set minimum retail, wholesale and producer prices (an over-order premium) on Class I milk produced, processed and purchased within Pennsylvania.

In addition to Senate Bill 365, there are two versions of proposed legislation in committee within the state House of Representatives that would enable Pennsylvania to join the Compact.

The House Ag and Rural Affairs Committee in late February held a hearing on one of the legislative proposals that is most similar in construct to the Senate version reported out this week.

Testimony presented during the House hearing showed overwhelming support for a Compact by the state's agricultural organizations — Pa. Farm Bureau, Pa. State Grange, and Pa. Farmers Union — as well as by the main dairy cooperatives in the region — Dairy Farmers of America, Land O' Lakes, Mt. Joy Farmers Cooperative, and the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Coop.

Opposition to the Compact expressed during the House hearing came from a small dairy farmer cooperative that markets to a local processor, and from a new organization — Independent Milk Producers Association.

Also strongly opposed to the Compact legislation is the Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers, an organization representing the state's independent milk processors.

State legislators have been hit with an onslaught of form letters in support of Compact-enabling legislation. The form letters were provided by dairy cooperatives to members, for members to fill in the blanks and mail to their representatives.

State legislators also been receiving opposition letters and phone calls from farmers and those supporting the state's independent processors.

The industry is still divided over the issue, although the national cooperatives, which seem to be the strongest proponents of Compact expansion and reauthorization, control a large percentage of the milk in Pennsylvania.

The Dairy Farmers of America and Land O'Lakes cooperatives are the largest of the cooperatives operating in Pennsylvania, and would have controlling voting power among all Compact states under an expanded Compact.

According to Cooperative representatives, while a commission comprised of representatives from each state included in the Compact would propose rules and regulations for the Compact, the commission's proposals would have to be approved by a two-thirds majority of the voting dairy producers in the Compact.

The cooperatives claim more than two-thirds majority of producers and cooperative management could bloc vote, which means that cooperative management votes on behalf of its membership.

Under the Compact, however, the cooperatives would have to allow members who wish to vote individually to do so, although the amount of additional burden required of a member to vote independently of cooperative leadership is not known.

Sen. William Slocum, chairman of the Committee, and Sen. Roger Madigan, primary author and sponsor of the legislation, expressed full support for Pennsylvania joining the Compact.

The bottom line of the issue for the senators was that the Compact could provide dairy producers a fair return on investment, and help to stop the loss of dairy farms in their northern tier districts.

Slocum represents Pennsylvanians in Cameron, Elk, Forest, McKean, Potter, and Warren counties, and residents in parts of Clearfield, Erie, Jefferson, and Venango counties.

Madigan represents producers in Bradford, Lycoming, Sullivan, and Tioga counties, and part of Union County.

In their constituency areas, dairy farms have been disappearing at a fast rate, according to Sen. Slocum.

At the same time, the land prices in their constituency regions don't have as wide a spread between values for residential and agricultural uses as those in the southern and central regions of the state.

The difference between those land use values is used as a test of the need for farmland preservation funds.

Therefore, farms in those counties are not being preserved under the state's Farmland Preservation Program.

The two senators said having their producers receive income protection under the Compact would go a long way toward preserving farmland in their districts.

In light of that desired effect, they said they considered the proposed Compact legislation to be a form of farmland preservation for their districts.

Senate Ag

During the Senate Ag Committee meeting Wednesday, there were some concerns and caveats expressed by some members that served to temper the unanimous vote for sending the legislation out of committee and before the full Senate.

Sen. Noah Wenger (R), vice chairman of the Committee who represents a large contigent of Lancaster County dairy farmers — cooperative members as well as a large number of independent producers — expressed concern about the longer term effect of the Compact on the producer industry.

Sen. Wenger proposed the approved amendment that directs PMMB members to represent the state on the Compact commission.

He expressed that his Wednesday vote of "yes" was not to be construed as an endorsement of the Compact legislation, but as an endorsement for the legislation to be presented before the full Senate for further debate and consideration.

In all, concerns were expressed by Sen. Wenger, and Committee members Sens. Patrick Stapelton (D-minority chairman of the Ag Committee), Richard Kasunic (D), and Michael Waugh (R).

Though not especially shared by each, the concerns were:

- While a floor price could be set to ensure an average cost-of-production return to producers, it could also serve as an incentive to overproduce, and result in further degradation of the milk price for all farmers.
- The Compact, overseen by a Commission, has the authority to set quotas on production, as well as set the producer floor price. (While the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau historically had policy opposing quotas, that policy was abandoned in recent years.) If production surges, quotas could be set (through Compact dairy farmer voting procedures) on all Compact dairy farming operations.
- As a member state of the Compact, Pennsylvania, with about 11,000 dairy farms, would only have equal representation on the oversight commission with other member states, such as Rhode Island, that has only about 40 dairy farms.
- Bloc voting by cooperatives — especially those with interests well beyond the borders of Pennsylvania, the Compact, and even the United States — could, in practice, overwhelm independent or even independent-thinking cooperative members and not reflect true inner-Compact producer desires.

There are other concerns about the Compact held by various interests in the state, though not expressed during the House hearing, nor during the Senate Committee meeting.

For example, processors within the Compact region would not benefit. Instead, when the market price for milk dropped below the floor price, processors would have to operate with the higher Compact price, putting them at a competitive disadvantage.

While the large, national cooperatives also own processing plants in Pennsylvania, it is assumed that the hardest affected would be independent processors.

and domestic) to move in and erode local production bases.

"The most recent Farm Bill was intended to phase out government from agriculture," Shirk said. "While greater exposure to a free/global market will be uncomfortable for many producers, price supports should not be used as a band-aid for a larger wound.

"We believe (U.S. Agriculture) Secretary Glickman should be encouraged to conduct a pork industry summit to establish short- and long-term strategies for that commodity," he said.

Adams said there is no good answer to the problem, from the perspective of integrators, such as Wengers.

"Most integrators in Pennsylvania do not market to retailers," he said, explaining that integrators in the Keystone state generally own the animals and feed stuffs and sell the finished commodities to marketers.

That means that, under current practices, the integration part of the industry doesn't follow through all the way to the retailer. Therefore, that means the integrators assume the losses (risk) with overproduction, with which they must deal.

"I believe most consumers are not aware of that," he said.

In essence, Wenger explained that those observing the industry have to look at it objectively, without romanticism and nostalgia.

He said it is his view that those who are to survive in a supply and demand free-market system must establish "alliances" within the system.

(An "alliance" in the agricultural industry has become a broadly used term to describe cooperative or contractual agreements that can be used to more predictably produce the quantity and quality of product the consumer wants or the market anticipates, and thus avoid excessive and expensive overproduction, changes in margin, and swings commodity prices.)

"We are a growth industry," Wenger said, adding that the business is getting more active and more involved with creating mutually beneficical business relationships for itself, while at the same time desiring to continue to supply resources to independent producers.

Mullady, representing Purina Mills, said "In the 12 years that I've been (in Pennsylvania), I've seen a shift in the size of farms. We traditionally dealt with smaller farms. And all these industries are changing rapidly. It's a matter of, 'Can we adapt to the future?'"

The issue was raised about the rapidity with which the industry is adopting new and more efficient production technology, which has been pressuring smaller or less efficient operations to exit the industry.

"With any technology, I'm not sure you can be critical of agriculture for using technology," Adams said.

As far as a solution, "While (Wenger's Feeds is) independent in many, many ways we are a whole lot less independent, we have expanded through partnerships.

"Fifty percent of the eggs are sold on price forwarding markets," he said.

"I wouldn't call it losing freedom, but gaining partners," Wenger said.

He reviewed his business's changes, discussing how it specializes in feed and has sold off its poultry hatchery businesses, its trucking business, and has entered into contracts as a way of deferring risk.

He discussed the $8 million that is being spent in Hegins Valley in Schuylkill County, and $11 million spent at the Quaker State Farm, and the jobs that have been created and jobs that are to be created as a result of anticipated expansions.

In essence, Wenger said that there is freedom for the independent producer — he has the freedom to choose his alliances or to choose none at all.

However, regardless of the choices made, the risks associated with those choices can't change merely because they are being made by different people.

Futhermore, Wenger said there is too much concern placed upon the size of an operation and whether a farm should be described as a family operation or run by a corporation. "We in agriculture are all together."

As far as opportunities, for those seeking alternatives, Wenger suggested that attention be given to the specialty markets and the marketing of niche products.

He explained how chicken is being marketed in New York as "Amish raised chicken" and "it sells for a lot more than regular chicken."

Susquehanna County Dairy Day Draws More Than 900 Visitors

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

ELK LAKE (Susquehanna Co.) — In spite of snow flurries and icy winds, more than 900 farmers and agribusiness representatives packed Elk Lake High School for the annual Susquehanna County Dairy Day Friday, March 12.

The daylong event featured educational programs, a chance to visit with numerous agribusiness representatives, health screenings, and a pie contest and auction.

One of the goals of the dairy day committee was to get more people involved in the educational programs. This year they believe they made a step toward reaching that goal.

On the agenda were programs on agronomy, passing on the farm, Internet use, milk pricing, and ag engineering. Also featured were tips on how to feel better about yourself and healthy meals on the run.

As an added feature, workers from the Endless Mountains Health Systems provided tetanus vaccinations, respiratory evaluations, and PSA testing for prostate cancer. Hearing tests were also made available compliments of the Farm Bureau.

Amy Skvarka with the Pennsylvania Farm Link Program informed listeners about the program which matches farm owners with prospective young farmers.

"Communication, comunication, comunication is the most important thing," noted Skvarka when talking about any kind of farm transfer.

More than 900 people packed Elk Lake High School at the annual Susquehanna County Dairy Day. Included in the day's events were health screenings, educational programs, a pie auction, and a chance to meet with numerous commercial exhibitors.

The Endless Mountains Health Service offered respiratory tests, tetanus shots, blood pressure screenings, and prostate cancer screenings to dairy day participants. Here respiratory therapist Blaine Dibble instructs Cal Dean of Montrose as he performs a peak flow test which measures the respiratory capacity of the lungs.

The Dairy Royalty were out in full force at Susquehanna County Dairy Day, serving cheese and ice cream to participants. Shown, from left, are dairy Princess Elizabeth Seman, Dairy Ambassador Kelly Diaz, and Dairy Maids Beth Giangrieco and Jessica Sartell.

Farm Safety was the topic of one display sponsored by Partners For Farm Safety, a non-profit educational group started by the Susquehanna County Farm Bureau. Here Jeremiah Smith, Chad Johnson, and Troy Kiryluk learn how quickly a person can be pulled into a gravity wagon.

She also had worksheets available for farmers on both ends of the spectrum: those looking to retire and those looking to get started. For a one-time fee, farmers can register with the program and fill out the information sheet.

"This is the first impression the farmer gets of you," said Skvarka.

After a possible match is made, farmers can meet with each other and, if the match is acceptable, the Farm Link Program can help work out an acceptable arrangement.

Farmers and farms are listed from across Pennsylvania. There are also farms listed with the program in other states.

"The program matches what people are looking for with what people have," said Skvarka.

Right now they have listings ranging from an Alpaca farm to dairy farms.

Workers at the Farm Link Program are also beginning a mentoring and apprentice program for interested farmers with WB Saul High School near Philadelphia. If pilot programs are successful, the program will be implemented statewide.

Pesticide certification credits were offered to those attending agronomy sessions in both the morning and afternoon. Highlighted were new techniques for weed control in corn, information on the integrated pest management survey, and the Food Quality Protection Act.

Listeners were also challenged to grade their own chemical storage practices using the Pennsylvania Farm-A-Sys evaluation program. If farmers take voluntary action to prevent pesticide conta-pipe outlet terraces with 3,500 feet of underground outlet and 2,200 feet of grassed waterway.

Red Knob, said Whiteside, has also installed 6,250 feet of stream bank fencing and riparian buffer to prevent livestock access to the streams and to provide wildlife cover. They also purchased about 3,000 feet of stream bank property from neighbors so they could control and maintain a riparian buffer along the stream.

"Another of Red Knob Farm's goals is to increase the appreciation of clean streams," said Whiteside.

Matthew Young thanked the people in the district. He said that "through patience and flexibility is how they were willing to work with us." Young told those attending the banquet, "there is very little in all our practices that we would do differently."

Business and individuals were also recognized at the banquet. Following are descriptions of those honored.

Sonia Wasco, an associate director of the district, and Charlotte D. Sprenkle, environmental education coordinator, uniquely recognized several individuals for their contributions and commitment to the Youth Conservation School (YCS), a week- long school held every summer for students ages 14-16.

USDA $200 Million Distribution Plan Satisfies Dairy Farmers Of America

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) has expressed general satisfaction with a plan announced last week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to distribute $200 million in market loss payments to the nation's dairy farmers.

The USDA distribution formula is modeled after a plan recommended last year by the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF), and strongly supported by DFA, with the exception of provisions for payment caps.

"The important thing is that these payments are coming at a time when dairy farmers are experiencing a steep decrease in farm prices for milk," said DFA Board Chairman Herman Brubaker. The Ohio dairy farmer explained that dairy producers across the nation have just experienced a one-third drop in the farm price of milk.

"Although these payments of 18-20 cents per hundredweight will not cover the $6 per hundredweight expected drop in farm milk prices this spring, they will be helpful as milk production peaks and prices are at the lowest levels of the year," Brubaker said.

"Dairy Farmers of America joined other dairy organizations last fall in pushing for the market loss payment program," Brubaker said. The dairy payments were part of a $6 billion package of emergency aid assistance for farmers that Congress included in the Fiscal Year 1999 budget.

The USDA will make payments based on a dairy operation's first 26,000 hundredweight of milk produced in 1998 or 1997, whichever is the highest. All dairy farmers who produced milk during the last quarter of 1998 are eligible for the payment.

To receive payment, farmers may apply at their local Farm Service Agency office from April 12 until May 21, 1999. The final payment rate per hundredweight will be calculated after the sign-up ends. USDA estimates that the rate will be between 18 and 20 cents per hundredweight.

Brubaker expressed his appreciation to the many members of Congress who recognized the needs of dairy producers for the market loss program and aided in convincing the USDA that the plan supported by DFA was the right way to distribute the market loss funds.

Dairy Farmers of America is a dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for 22,000 dairy farmer members in 45 states. DFA supplies milk to bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products and food components for consumers in the U.S. and around the world.

MEADVILLE (Crawford Co.) — One of the largest educational events for agricultural producers in the history of the region, Northwest Pennsylvania Ag/Dairy Day, will be Thursday, March 25, at Allegheny College. It is sponsored by cooperative extension offices and agribusinesses in Crawford, Erie, and Mercer counties.

More than 50 agribusinesses will display their products and services. The educational program begins with registration, coffee, and an opportunity to visit with exhibitors from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. in the lobby of Henderson Campus Center. A welcome address will begin promptly at 10 a.m. in Shafer Auditorium. The morning program will focus on making quality forage, working with consultants, and computerized crop records. Speakers for this portion of the program include Dr. Larry Chase, dairy nutritionist, Cornell; Everett Thoms, agronomist, Miner Institute, New York; and Jan Pruss, crop management associate, Penn State University.

Lunch and another opportunity to visit displays will be from noon to 1:15 p.m.. The afternoon programs will address the topics of getting cows bred, making cows and crops a profitable business, and corn management for top production. Speakers for the afternoon programs include Dr. Mike O'Connor, reproduction specialist, Penn State University, Dr. Chase and Everett Thomas; and Dr. Greg Roth, agronomy specialist, Penn State University.

Tickets are available at $3 per person from participating dealers or county cooperative extension offices. Tickets or reservations are required. Cost of the tickets include proceedings. Plenty of parking will be available at Allegheny College because spring break will be in effect. Parking restrictions are being waived.

Delaware County Cooperative Extension To Meet

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — All interested residents of Delaware County are invited to the Delaware County Cooperative Extension Association, Inc., annual meeting and dinner April 13 at 6 p.m. at the Redwood Community Playhouse in Upland.

The annual meeting and guest speaker will follow a buffet dinner.

Dinner is $15 per person and tickets must be reserved by April 5. The meeting and speaker are free of charge. Call the office at (610) 690-2655 for more information.

The guest speaker will be Jane Mecum, an extension agent from Dauphin County, who will help us answer the question, "Why don't you think like me?" Mecum provides a humorous look at individual traits as they are affected by right or left brain dominance. Some individuals are creative, instant problem solvers and risk takers, while others are not. Some individuals are dependable, always on time and always reliable. These and other traits make us individuals who sometimes challenge one another in the way we get things accomplished.

Cooperative extension serves interested residents of the county through educational programs on health and nutrition, commercial horticulture, home horticulture, and youth programs which include 4-H clubs and curriculum enrichment for classrooms. Come to the meeting, meet the staff, and find out more about the programs or call the office to be added to appropriate mailing lists.

Livestock Marketing Association Calls For Beef Checkoff Vote

according to a current CBB-sponsored survey 60 percent of producers are satisfied with the checkoff. This contrasts drastically with LMA's findings as they gather signatures for a checkoff referendum that nine out of 10 grassroots producers want the right to vote on the checkoff after contributing to it for 10 years or more.

Maybe both surveys are correct. Many producers are satisfied with the checkoff overall, but they also believe they should have the right to vote on it.

Recently LMA turned down CBB on the proposed "Agreement in Principle" and sent a counter proposal calling on the CBB to demonstrate its commitment to a producer-run beef checkoff by supporting a producer vote next year. Nancy Robinson, vice president of government and industry affairs for LMA, said a key reason the marketing group turned down this agreement in principle was that the agreement didn't allow producers to vote on the checkoff unless 50 percent or more were dissatisfied for two out of three consecutive years. LMA's preference is that producers be given the opportunity to vote periodically, and that the decision to take the checkoff to a vote not be based on a subjective opinion poll.

According to Robinson, the issue is the accountability that is created when producers have the right to vote periodically on the checkoff.

LMA's counter proposal to the Cattlemen's Beef Board requests a producer vote next year-a vote that wouldn't be a "yes" or "no" to the checkoff. Rather the vote would let producers indicate if they want the beef checkoff to continue as it is or if they want a referendum, a yes-or-no vote, by the year 2003 and periodic votes thereafter. This would give the CBB three years to work with the industry and make changes that would regain producer confidence.

A national movement is underway to get producers to sign a petition card. Signing this card doesn't mean a producer is for or against the checkoff. The gathering of 120,000 producer signatures is simply the required step to bring the checkoff to a vote.

Adams County To Get Ag Center

Currently volunteers involved in a capital campaign hope to meet a goal of $400,000 by April 1. This money will be used to outfit and furnish the facility.

"We have received anything from $5 to $40,000. Cash and pledges total $190,000 and in-kind services are estimated at $100,000. These figures are not firm because it's hard to determine the in-kind donations," said Faith Peterson, who chairs the capital campaign along with Ken Reinhart.

The proposed site of the 32,000-square foot building is on the west side of Old Harrisburg Road just north of the Gettysburg Borough line in Cumberland Township on land owned by Adams County, according to Zepp.

The land was formerly the site of the county Alms House and is bordered on the north by National Park Service land and on the west by Green Acres retirement home and the Adams County Prison.

Since the site is of historic significance because it was the location of the county's Alms house, the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association has agreed to work on its historical interpretation.

One of several sites considered, the proposed location was chosen because it offered advantages such as the availability of utilities, proximity to the county courthouse and county ownership.

The proposed two-story building will include, on the lower level, a large meeting room with partitions to create three rooms, fully-equipped kitchen for serving light refreshments, teaching cooking classes and other "family living" extension programs, a classroom for more formal instructional activities, research and reading room adjacent to a county archive area, shop-type meeting area, heated but unfinished, with access for vehicles and suitable for livestock and/or equipment workshops.

The second floor will feature a central lobby with cathedral ceiling, two conference rooms directly off the main lobby for convenient access and a display area.

The exterior design is traditional Adams County agricultural architecture.

Innovative technologies will be utilized to provide for energy needs in environmentally conservative ways. As the first building in the Gettysburg area to use such "green" technologies, the Ag Center will demonstrate these new systems. Furthermore it will provide a site for ongoing analysis of cost/benefit operating expenses of these new energy-saving technologies.

Adams Electric Cooperative, which also built a new facility recently, is providing advice on the technologies. Gary W. Shaffer is architect for the building.

The center also will house offices for the Penn State Extension office and the conservation district, which are currently located in separate buildings at opposite ends of Gettysburg.

To reflect program objectives and missions the outside areas will be developed into a park-like setting. The intention is to create a pleasing, environmentally friendly, recreational and educational park, said Stanley Wolf, vice chair and a semi-retired farmer who calls the project one of his dreams.

Some of the projects in various stages of planning are: Master Gardeners' Penn State trial garden; historic waystation; restoration of historic outbuildings; and re-establishment of historic fencerows.

Visitors to the site during the summer of 1999 will see the Penn State trial garden. This 300-square foot garden will be planted with flowers and vegetables on an area of the site that had been a garden in the days of the Alms House.

With plant materials supplied by Penn State, the Adams County Master Gardeners will cultivate the plantings and collect data on the various species. The Master Gardeners will also assist in the planning and planting of the landscaping around the ag building.

Anyone wishing to make a donation — all donor's names will be inscribed on a plaque to be set in the building's wall — should mail it or take it between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to Adams County Conservation District, 57 N. Fifth St., Gettysburg, PA 17325, or call 1-717-334-0636 for a donation card. Checks should be made out to Adams County Conservation District or ACCD. Add "For Building Fund" on memo line. All contributions to the building fund may be deducted for federal income tax purposes.

Susquehanna County Dairy Day Draws More Than 900 Visitors

mination of ground and surface water, the availability of pesticides for responsible use is more likely to continue, according to Mark Madden, extension agent.

The worksheet included questions on distances from wells or other water sources, management practices, and storage habits including the type of material on the floors of storage areas, the type of containers that are stored, and the security of the area.

Farm safety was the topic of concern for a group known as the Partners For Safety. Their display featured a gravity box filed with corn, comparisons of common chemicals with Koolaid or water, and a PTO demonstration.

Chad Johnson of Susquehanna County spent some time studying the gravity wagon with his friends Jeremiah Smith and Troy Kiryluk.

As they played with the exhibit that included a doll and a bag full of popcorn and a plexiglas gravity wagon, they could see firsthand how fast tragedy can strike.

"You should never stand in a wagon full of grain," said Johnson, "You could fall into it and get trapped."

The group, sponsored by the Susquehanna County Farm Bureau, is just starting to promote farm safety actively. They plan to host an annual farm safety day in addition to attending Dairy Day events.

Other programs included talks on milk pricing, dairy compacts, Federal Milk Market Order restructuring, and the FSA Dairy Relief fund presented by Clyde Albertson and Louis Hawley.

Dr. Robert Graves of Penn State also offered tips on barn ventilation and dairy expansion.

Topping the event was the annual pie auction. Twenty-seven pies were entered in the event, judged by the three Susquehanna County Commissioners. Topping the event were a blueberry pie baked by Jean Castrogiovanni, a pecan pie baked by Gail Brooks, and a coconut cream pie baked by Robin Campbell.

The pies were auctioned off, raising $1,930 for the 4-H Dairy Program and Dairy Promotion Program of Susquehanna County. State Representative Sandra Major purchased Jean Castrogiovanni's pie for $70, Dave Hibbard of the Department of Agriculture purchased Gail Brooks's pie for $75, and dairy farmer Rubin Everett purchased Robin Campbell's pie for $135.

Door prizes and a roast beef or fish dinner provided by the exhibitors were also part of the day's events as were samples of cheese, ice cream, and milk handed out by the Susquehanna County Dairy Promotion Committee.

Tom and May McCoy, McCoy's Butcher Shop, were honored for volunteering their time. The McCoy's "contributed to the success of the school," said Wasco.

Sprenkle honored Bob Lauffer, vice chairman of the district board of directors and Garden Spot High School ag instructor, for "helping with YCS almost since its inception," said Wasco.

Also honored was Harold "Junior" Zeiset for work as counselor for YCS.

Agency Award

Frank R. Burkhart, a director of the district, presented the 1999 Agency Award to Larry Zuschlag, Columbia. The award recognizes an individual for his or her contribution, commitment, and years of dedicated service promoting conservation of natural resources, said Burkhart.

Zuschlag, graduate of Mercer High School, began working part-time while in school for NRCS. In 1958, he came on full time.

According to Burkhart, Zuschlag gained experience in Mercer and New Castle counties and with the Washington Watershed Project. In 1974 he came to Lancaster and worked under the supervision of Warren Archibald. In 1994 Zuschlag was transferred to the Pequea Millcreek office in Smoketown and has since worked with Frank Lucas, project leader.

"The real measure of Larry's success is the outstanding working relationship he has developed with farmers, contractors, and fellow conservation professionals," said Burkhart.

Educator Award

Terry L. Kauffman, Lancaster County commissioner, presented the 1999 Conservation Educator award to Vicki Reed-Strohecker, Richland, a science teacher at Hempfield Senior High School.

Strohecker has been involved with the Envirothon competition, sending three or more teams of students each year.

Kauffman said that Vicki has also consulted with Mark Metzler and Chotty Sprenkle on how "to turn their stormwater runoff basin into a natural wetlands area," he said.

She and her students applied for and received grants to plant trees, shrubs, and wetland plants in the basin, create a study area, a picnic area, and erect different bird nesting structures.

Strohecker and her students also received a grant to plant wildflowers, plants, and shrubs to attract butterflies and hummingbirds to the schoolyard. The garden is located at the entrance to the preschool area so that young children can begin to appreciate this type of wildlife.

"Vicki has also been instrumental in integrating high school students to work with elementary students to help promote 'hands-on science,'" Kauffman said.

Strohecker noted that environmental education is one of her "true passions" and thanked the district for the recognition.

Watershed Award

Ken Meck, one of the district directors, presented the Watershed Conservation Award to the Santo Domingo Creek Water Quality Facility.

Meck said the Santo Domingo Creek is a main tributary to the Lititz Run in Lititz. With a watershed of 2,300 acres, this creek "provides the largest sediment load and stormwater volume in the Lititz Run Watershed," he said. "To combat the sediment pollution and the increasing stormwater flows in the area, LandStudies, Inc., in cooperation with the Lititz Run Watershed Alliance, designed a structure to manage 80 to 90 percent of the watershed by redirecting the flow through 2.8 acres of wetland."

After construction in September and October 1998, the wetland was installed on a community planting day by a large force of neighbors, students, and other volunteers with native plants supplied by Octoraro Native Plant Nursery.

Meck said, "This facility is truly a multiple-use facility, providing sediment and stormwater control while enriching our environment by providing an ideal observation site for visitors to observe the various wildlife that will congregate in this newly created habitant."

W. Logan Myers III, accepting he award for the facility on behalf of the watershed alliance, thanked those who worked cooperatively with the alliance and the township.

James MacKenzie, president of Octoraro Native Plant Nursery, said they have begun a new program that will provide grants of $200 each for educational-type projects using plants for projects.

Attended by more than 250 conservation cooperators, agribusinesses, and friends of the district, the district's 48th annual dinner meeting and banquet honored Red Knob, composed of the Young family, and others for environmental stewardship and commitment to conservation. From left, Matthew, Henry, and David Young, Wakefield.

Center For Rural Pa.

The point being that the consumer doesn't know the conditions under which those birds were produced, but the connotations of the word "Amish" means something to the New York consumer, and that is why that specialty line is able to command a higher price.

According to Wenger, the bottom line is that each in agriculture has a responsibility to become aware of what is demanded by the market, the costs of production, etc., and then decide to make changes to fulfill that demand, or decide to not get involved.

State Grange

William Steel, master of the the Pennsylvania State Grange, testified next.

The Grange is largely an organization that represents rural interests, much of which is dependent and represented by those involved in agricultural production and processing.

According to Steel, the Pennsylvania State Grange has 30,000 rural members and about half of them live on small single or multiple family run farms.

He also informed the Center representatives — Rep. Miller and Center secretary Joe Dudick — that he was representing the policy of the Grange members, who annually decide policy generated from policies submitted from local Grange members for consideration by the state organization.

Because of the importance of agriculture to rural communities — it serves as the economic engine for many — the Grange position is that protections are needed for rural agriculture.

"There is no question as to whether or not farmers are being impacted from low commodity prices. Feed grain and hog farmers in Pennsylvania are in a financial crisis.

"Many of them are receiving less for their product now than they have for the last 60 years. Hog prices have plummeted.

"The real questions are: 'Why have the drops occurred?' 'What can we do to help the farmers through this crisis?' and 'What can be done to prevent this same scenario from happening in the future?'" Steel said.

Steel explained that he believed the collapse of the Asian economy, an increase in imports, especially from Canada, and the loss of export markets have compounded the damage to Pennsylvania's rural economies.

He discussed the reactions by the USDA in light of the unforeseen sharp decline in hog producer prices, such as the USDA postponing certain loan repayments for certain farmers; as well as using its authority for debt rescheduling and loan forgiveness to assist needy farmers; bonus buying $95 million worth of pork products; and USDA Secretary Dan Glickman meeting with retailers to encourage them to feature pork and ensure that retail prices reflect the price received by farmers.

He said that what really needs to be done is to discover a means so as to prevent future unexpected surpluses of domestic product.

"While we hail the efforts of Secretary Glickman, and our own (state) Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, the Grange believes that we must analyze our import and export trade agreements as well as why the markets have plummeted.

"We must also determine how a swift expansion on a particular agricultural industry will effect the market in the future.

"Additionally, consumers must see a drop in their price as the producer price drops.

"Yes, the price has dropped at the retail level, but not nearly to the extent of the drop in farm prices," Steel said.

"I have seen estimates that in-store prices have only dropped 1 percent. If consumers had been given a bigger price cut earlier, perhaps the domestic demand would have increased, thus diverting, at least in part, the current crisis of the hog industry."

He said the USDA should also examine deficiency payments based on the loan rate, as compared to the present market price of a commodity.

"If loan rates are too low, especially in a dought year because yields are taken into consideration for deficiency payments, the farmers will not be sufficiently helped."

Steel said that more investigation and analysis needs to be done into apparent monopolization within agricultural production, supply and processing industries.

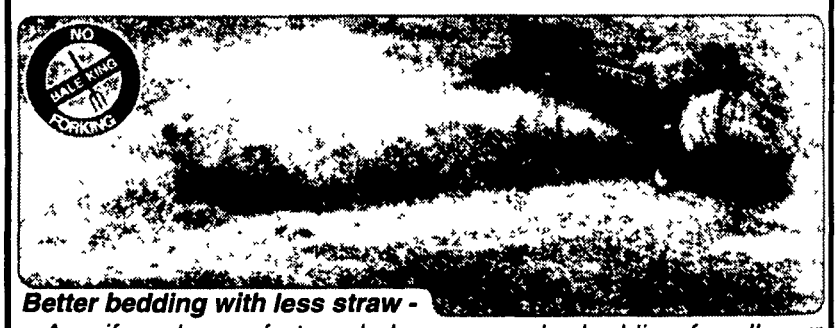
BALE KING

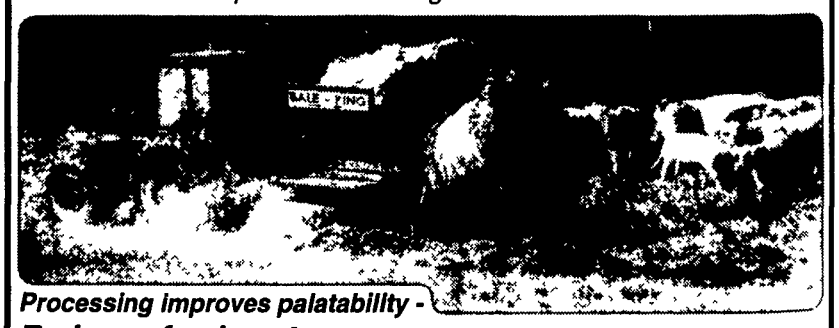
Give your entire herd all the advantages the dominant cows take!



Better bedding with less straw -

A uniform layer of straw helps ensure dry bedding for all your livestock, not just the boss cows. Your entire herd will be cleaner and more comfortable.

Bale King can also be used to spread straw inside poultry barns or blow straw into open front cattle shelters and calving huts as well as produce bedding for hogs. Fast, uniform spreading in a fraction of the time without a pitch fork or strings.



Processing improves palatability -

Reduces feed costs

Processing the bales makes it a lot easier for your livestock to feed They will no longer have to pull and tear at a packed bale to get a bit of feed. They'll be able to feed faster and use less energy in feeding. Processed feed may improve feed conversion rates. There's also less waste. Many Bale King owners report feed savings of 20% or more.

Why the Hysteria Over Hog Prices?

COLUMBUS, Ohio — With operation losses of $2.6 billion, 1998 was the worst year to be in the hog business since the Great Depression, said Ohio State University agricultural economist Brian Roe.

"Once inflation is taken out, hog prices in 1998 were 30 percent lower than they were during the Depression," Roe said "That number is a little deceiving because with modern techniques and efficiency it's also cheaper to produce a hog than it was back in the '30s, but that's still a pretty telling figure."

Hog prices typically rise and fall on a four- to five-year cycle, he said Hog producers see themselves and others making good profits, so they expand their operations. Soon, too many hogs are produced and prices begin to drop As prices fall, some producers either decrease their herd or get out of the business entirely This lowers hog production numbers, prices again begin to rise and the cycle starts all over again

The problem in 1998 was producers responded more than normal to strong profits in 1996 and 1997 Some producers, fearing environmental restrictions on future expansion, increased their operations faster than they typically would have, Roe said So instead of building one new barn, they built two or three.

At the same time, meat processing plant closings and labor strikes, especially in Canada, diminished the ability of hog processors to handle the large quantities of pork being produced.

"We not only produced more hogs than normal, but we also went over the industry's capacity to slaughter hogs," Roe said "It was kind of a confluence of several unfortunate things on top of a natural dip in the price cycle"

As a result, hog prices plummeted from $50 to $55 per hundred pounds of pork produced (cwt) in 1996 to a low of around $10 per cwt. just before this past Christmas. For average hog producers, the price they received at market was far less than their production costs, Roe said.

For example, many hog producers run what's called a finishing operation — buying young pigs at about 50 pounds, feeding them for four months until they grow to about 250 pounds, and then taking them to market. The average finisher who bought a 50-pound pig in July '98 raised it to 250 pounds and sold it in November '98 would have had the following production costs per pig. $16 85 to buy the pig initially, $18 50 for feed corn, $20.80 for soybean meal and other feed supplements, $2.50 in labor charges, $1.75 for transportation to the farm initially and later to market, $12.90 in fixed costs such as building upkeep, and $8.10 in miscellaneous costs such as veterinarian services. All together, the production cost to raise a feeder pig at that time was $81.40.

If the feeder pig in the example was sold in November just before Thanksgiving, it would have brought about $17 50 per cwt. at the marketplace. At 250 pounds, the average producer would have gotten back only $43.75 resulting in a loss of more than $37.50 after production costs.

"And that wasn't the worst of it," Roe said "Just before Christmas when prices were about $10 per hundred pounds, producers were only getting about $25 per animal and losing $50 to $55 on each pig. If you put a couple zeros behind that for producers selling several hundred pigs, it really starts to hurt."

However, average producers who sold one her per week from Jan 1, 1996 through Nov. 30, 1998, are still on the plus side in terms of total profit during that time span because of strong prices received in 1996 and 1997, he said But they are only $1,000 above the break-even point, with the losses of December and January included, total profits since January 1996 would drop between $200 and $300.

Things are finally starting to get better. Current prices are back to the low to mid $20 per cwt. range, and most people believe that between April and June of this year prices will return to break-even amounts in the mid $30s, Roe said.

"Less efficient operations and those with financial problems before the low prices hit have left the hog business, moving supplies back to more manageable levels," he said. "And processing facilities ran a lot of overtime and weekend shifts to catch up with the large supplies."

Those producers who have survived either cut costs as much as possible, got rid of less efficient animals or relied on another source of income. Some producers may benefit from recently introduced federally funded programs that will extend operating loans to help them get through the particularly hard part of the cycle, Roe said.

"Prices are very cyclical and eventually they rebound," he said. "Producers who are very efficient and committed will find a way to stay in the industry"

Center For Rural Pa.

"Recently, some industry analysts voiced a ... concern. They feel that large agricultural enterprises have the ability to control the feed grain and meat markets, and can actually push the family farmer out of business.

"They have stated that family sized pork producers are innocent victims, suffering because of untamed corporate monopolization of the industry," Steel said. "Where there were five or six buyers for independently produced hogs at a local western Pennsylvania auction barn a year ago, today there may be two.

"Farmers tell me it appears that (the few remaining buyers) are working the market," he said.

"We have anti-trust laws in the corporate world. The same laws should apply in the agricultural arena," Steel said. "We need to investigate the effects of the merger of giant conglomerates in the feed grain and meat markets."

Steel then suggested that the Center take a look into law in Iowa that is designed to prevents hog and beef processors from being involed in the production of hogs and beef.

"To paraphrase, the law state that a processor of beef or pork shall not directly or indirectly control the manufacturing, processing or preparation for sale of pork products derived from swine, if the processor contracted for the care and feeding of the swine in the state," he said.

"This is an attempt to prevent a monopoly and protect consumers.

"The Pennsylvania State Grange has not endorsed this type of law here as yet, but a number of our members are considering resolutions in support of this concept," Steel said.

He also said that the policy of the Grange is not to differentiate between farm sizes when establishing policy, "... but we do believe that all farmers should be treated equally.

"All should be given the same tax incentives and low interest loan opportunities. A small select group of producers should not be permitted to control the market."

Ohio FFA Member Wins Classic Tractor

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa — Whatever else Kaylin Hedrick accomplishes as a member of the FFA, her first year in the organization may be her most memorable.

Kaylin, a freshman at Monroeville Junior-Senior High School in Monroeville, Ohio, has won a classic John Deere 4020 Tractor awarded by John Deere Credit.

This is the fifth year John Deere Credit has awarded a restored classic 4020 Tractor to an active member of the National FFA Organization. The tractor is a part of the JDC™ "We understand getting started" program designed especially for FFA members. Kaylin's name was chosen from more than 100,000 entries.

"I was surprised that I could actually win," said Kaylin when she was notified of the honor. Her FFA adviser, Wayne Weber, accepted the tractor on her behalf when her name was announced at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Kaylin received the restored classic tractor at a ceremony in Monroeville. The John Deere 4020, first produced in the early 1960s, was greatly admired by farmers and continues to be widely used.

Kaylin is the daughter of Ralph and Karen Hedrick, the youngest of three children. She became interested in agriculture after taking an introductory course in eighth grade.

Pa. Tobacco's Future At March 24 Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — What's the future of tobacco in Pennsylvania? Will tobacco prices continue to fall? Will demand ever go up? Should I plant tobacco this year?

What's making the market so unstable? What impact are the government suits having on tobacco prices? Will tobacco quotes be a thing of the past and what effect will that have on Pa. tobacco growers?

These are only a few of the questions many tobacco growers are asking.

Dr. Thomas Caphart, tobacco analyst with the USDA Economic Research Service, will discuss what impact all these factors and other factors are having on Pennsylvania tobacco growers at a tobacco meeting Wednesday, March 24, at 1:30 p.m. The meeting will be conducted at the Bareville Fire Company Social Hall. The hall is located on the north side of New Holland Pike in the village of Bareville between Leola and New Holland.

John Yocum and Bob Anderson from Penn State University will discuss major insect and disease problems of Pennsylvania tobacco. Key issues will be blue mold outlook for 1999, how to keep blue mold under control, and insect pests which are apt to be more of a problem in 1999 because of the warm winter.

Before you decide to plant or not to plant tobacco in 1999, plan to attend this very important tobacco meeting. Base your decision to plant or not to plant on facts.

All tobacco growers and other persons interested in growing tobacco are invited to attend this meeting. If you have any questions about these meetings, contact Bob Anderson at the Lancaster County Extension Office, (717) 394-6851.

Beshore Farms To Host York County Barn Meeting

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The York County Holstein Club and Beshore Farms will conduct a barn meeting Tuesday, March 30, at noon.

A complimentary lunch will be provided by Pennfield Feeds and Beshore Farms, followed by a presentation on marketing and breeding by Dale Rice.

Dale and Fred Rice own and operate Ricecrest Farms in Chambersburg. The Rices have several bulls in the lineups of all the major studs.

Plan to arrive for lunch, visit, and learn on Tuesday afternoon, March 30. Door prizes will be offered from Alta Genetics, ABS, Genex, Select Sires, and Ricecrest.

Directions to Beshore's are 83 north to Fishing Creek exit 16. Turn right to traffic light and turn left, this will be Old York Road. Continue for a mile and a half. Farm is on your right.

QUESTION: You were at our farm in December and we discussed feeding a 100-percent TMR by including baleage in the mix instead of feeding it alone. As suggested, the range of our MUN values was reduced and herd average MUN remained the same. Now average MUN is quite low and butterfat test has dropped sharply to 3.1 percent. What should we do now?

ANSWER: I can sense the frustration that comes from this question. Looking back to our visit in December, I remember that the biggest concern was that bunk space was limited for the number of cows eating and the bare-bunk disease that I saw compounded this problem. The dairyman has since tried to remedy this situation by feeding all components of the TMR together and is now feeding for some refusal feed at the bunk.

Differences in milk urea nitrogen (MUN) across a herd or group of cows is very common. Total mixed rations (TMRs) lead us to a bit of different expectation.

Looking at the range, total MUN values indicates differences between cows. When we adhere to proper TMR design and balance, we should see indicators of even nutrient consumption throughout our herd.

This is shown in particular by MUN values with good averages and less of a spread in the range between the low and high.

The expectations are in direct proportion to the control we have over the diet that is consumed.

This herd is now exhibiting two telltale signs of a problem.

The MUN of a month ago was in the middle of the 10 to 14 acceptable range, indicating that most cows are eating correctly.

The range of the most recent month was tighter than the month before, with the low being 7 and the high being 14. This shift suggests that changes to address the feed selection among cows were positive.

Current Pa.DHIA test day reports show that the herd is now below the acceptable average for MUN and the spread between low and high is greater than ever before.

A second sign that a problem now exists is that the butterfat has dropped from 3.8 percent to 3.1 percent in the last 30 days.

The current diet has not changed in nutrient makeup.

What did change was that the haylage was gone and had to be replaced with baleage.

The comparison between the haylage and baleage was very similar, except for one distinct difference. Particle size is between 10 and 20 times greater in the baleage as it is processed to become part of the TMR.

You might think that this doesn't make sense, because the drop in butterfat percent should tell us that fiber, and effective fiber in particular, has diminished.

The same thoughts ran through my mind, until I reminded myself of one important TMR trait that is often overlooked. We need to establish if this TMR has any chance of being homogenous. In other words, can the cows sort.

TMR feeding has become very popular across Pennsylvania. The variations between what is commonly called a TMR are quite extensive.

I think this is the best example, to date, as to why we need to spend more time reading what our cows tell us about our ability to provide an even flow of nutrients to all of them.

In this herd, we changed what the cows ate, without even knowing.

The belief that two or three feeds put through a mixer constitutes a TMR diet is grossly overrated in this herd.

We need to explore the likelihood that what goes into the cow is not what we have put before her.

The basic feeds in this herd are corn silage, haylage, baleage, high moisture corn, and protein supplement. These are no different than most of our farms.

Annual 'PX Days' Important Event For Farm Bureau Members

GLENMONT, N.Y. — More than 215 New York Farm Bureau members were in Albany on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 22-23, to participate in the annual Policy Execution Days.

"PX Days," as it's called by the nearly 30,000 Farm Bureau members, is an annual event that gives county Farm Bureau leaders an opportunity to meet with state legislators and staff to discuss issues that impact agriculture in the state.

According to Farm Bureau President John Lincoln, PX Days proved once again that the farm community is committed to having its views on important issues known. He said it also focuses on the farmer's need to inform state legislators about the importance of agriculture in the state's economy. PX Days is an essential tool in communicating the message that legislation which impacts agriculture impacts consumers, too.

The two-day event kicked off with a Monday afternoon legislative briefing by New York Farm Bureau staff. This important component of PX Days brings the county leaders and members up to date on current issues and provides additional information to prepare them for their visits the following day.

Following the briefing, legislators and their staff were invited to a reception in the "Well" of the Legislative Office Building. The reception displayed a variety of New York's bountiful harvest, where 24 country Farm Bureaus and other New York State commodity organizations showcased their products and provided samples. Legislators also received gift baskets filled with New York State farm products.

Tuesday began with a breakfast featuring remarks from State Senator Nancy Larraine Hoffmann and Assemblyman William Magee, both newly appointed chairs of their respective agriculture committees. Hoffmann told Farm Bureau members that as the new chair of the Senate Agriculture Committee, she plans "to convey to the rest of the world the importance of what you (farmers) do and to foster a climate that is pro-'ag'. It's an enormous undertaking."

Magee said he hopes to have an "opportunity to bring more production agriculture people and supermarkets together, promoting New York grown and New York farm products."

Throughout the day, Farm Bureau members visited with their respective State Senate and Assembly Legislators to seek their legislative support of Farm Bureau issues, including support for farm sales tax reform, energy cost reduction, reforming New York's civil justice system, and New York Farm Bureau's 1999-2000 state budget priorities.

Tuesday's luncheon speaker was New York Attorney General Elliott Spitzer, who remarked that his office is bi-partisan and that he is the state's "attorney for the people, including New York State's farmers."

"The important thing to keep in mind is that this is only the beginning of our policy execution year," said President Lincoln. "Our members are now preparing for our annual visit to Washington, D.C. next month. Farm Bureau members lobby their state and federal legislators on an ongoing basis."

Dairyman To Dairyman

How we process these feeds is quite variable and, in this case, problematic.

Particle size variation from one feed to another in a TMR can be great. Providing a constant diet to all cows requires us to manage this aspect. Baleage, processed to about 10 inches in length, is too different from the other diet components to expect that cows will not sort.

High producing, larger, and more aggressive cows get to the bunk ahead of others and eat the smaller, denser portion of the diet. This leaves the long-cut baleage portion for other cows to eat. Now we have a situation where all the cows are eating an incorrect diet due to this sorting.

How do we know this?

First, keen observation of these cows show us. Secondly, even in the absence of observation, the performance is not what we have learned to expect when we feed a TMR.

The MUN dropped to an undersirable level on the majority of cows while the range in MUN values has increased. The percent butterfat of the herd has dropped to an unhealthy level.

These are the words of the cows in the only way they know how to use them. This TMR is not a TMR as consumed by the cows.

Home on the Range

In addition to tasting great, citrus fruit and juices help in the pursuit of a healthy lifestyle. High in vitamin C, folic aid, and fiber, citrus is attributed with helping to reduce the risk of certain cancers, heart disease, and birth defects.

Take a fresh look at kiwifruit, which ranks number one weight-for-weight as the most nutritious of the 27 most popular fruits tested.

Not only is kiwi low in calories, it far outpaces oranges as a source of vitamin C; one 100 gram serving of kiwi provides 230 percent (more than twice) the recommended daily value of vitamin C. Included in today's selection of recipes are several ideas for incorporating kiwi into your menu.

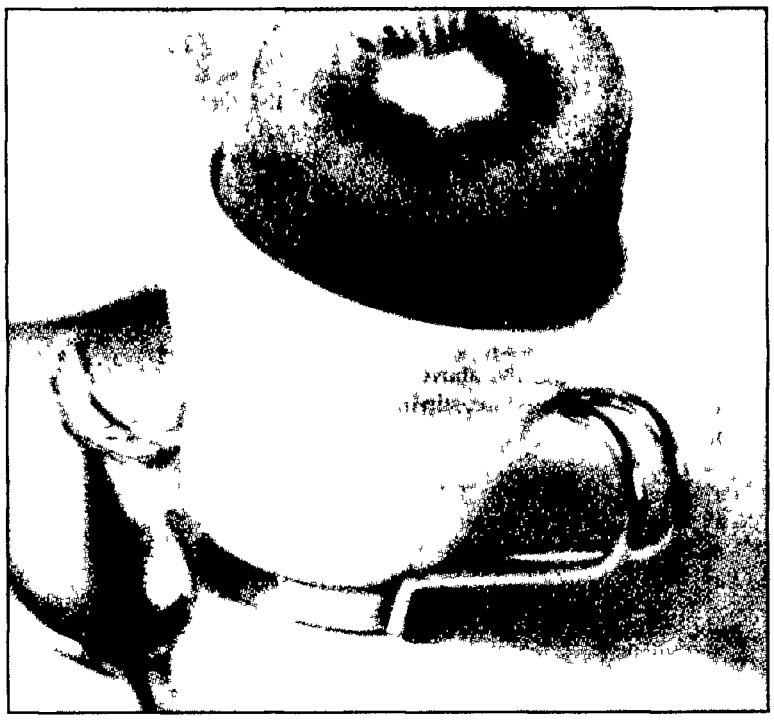
Citrus fruits are wonderful eaten fresh just the way nature made them, but there are many unique and tasty ways to serve them combined with other ingredients.

The "Florida Cuisine" cookbook features 39 unique ways to create truly great-tasting main courses, side dishes, beverages, appetizers, and desserts—all with reduced calories and fat—using Florida citrus. Look for copies at your local retailer or send $1 to "Florida Cuisine" c/o Florida Dept. of Citrus, P.O. Box 148; Lakeland, FL 33802-0148.

FRUIT COCKTAIL

1 pint strawberries, thinly sliced
1 pint raspberries
1 cup sliced peaches
1 cup sliced kiwi
1 cup cantaloupe balls or cubes
1 cup honeydew balls or cubes
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Refrigerate at least 4 hours for flavors to blend. Yields 10 to 12 servings.



Kiwifruit may be small, but it has twice the vitamin C of an orange and many other nutrients.

KIWI FRENCH TOAST SANDWICHES

1 egg
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Dash salt
4 kiwifruit, peeled, sliced ¼-inch thick
4 slices cinnamon raisin bread
Powdered sugar
Maple syrup

In a pie pan or shallow bowl, mix egg, milk, vanilla, and salt until well blended. Place bread in egg mixture, turning once to coat both sides. Place kiwifruit slices in a single layer between two pieces of bread to form second sandwich.

Heat griddle over medium heat. Spray with nonstick cooking spray. Cook the sandwiches, turning once, until golden brown on the outside and there is no evidence of uncooked eggs, about 3 minutes.

To serve, cut sandwiches into quarters. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve with a ramekin of maple syrup for dipping.

Start your day with a boost of nutritious energy from Kiwifruit French Toast Sandwiches, Kiwifruit Pancakes, or New Zealand Breakfast Split.

2 cups cold cooked wild rice, brown rice or long grain rice

Prepare fruit and set aside. In a medium bowl, mix yogurt and honey. Add the remaining ingredients and toss to combine and coat all well. Refrigerate for 30-60 minutes before serving. Yields 8 servings.

BOILED GRAPEFRUIT

2 red grapefruit
4 teaspoons honey
4 teaspoons brown or granulated sugar
4 maraschino cherries

Cut grapefruit in half, cut out center, section the segments. Drizzle a teaspoon of honey and a teaspoon sugar on each half and place a cherry in the center of each half.

Place cut side up on broiler pan. Broil 3 to 4 minutes 5-inches from broiler or until bubbly on top. Serve warm. Sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg if desired.

Yields 4 servings.

Kiwifruit, that brown-skinned, emerald-green fruit from New Zealand, ranks number one weight-for-weight as the most nutritious of the 27 most popular fruits tested.

Not only is it low in calories, it far outpaces oranges as a source of vitamin C; one 100 gram serving of kiwi provides 230 percent (more than twice) the recommended daily value of vitamin C. It is one of the best sources for vitamins A, C, and E, plus folate, potassium and magnesium and dietary fiber. As a low-fat source of vitamin E, and antioxidant important to good heart health, kiwifruit is especially valuable. It is one of the best sources of low sodium, high potassium elements which are crucial to maintaining fluid and electrolyte balances in the body.

Kiwifruit will ripen at room temperature in three to five days. Fruit is ripe when slightly soft to the touch, like a peach. The firmer the flesh, the more tart the flavor will be.

Ripe kiwifruit can be stored for two to three weeks when placed in a sealed plastic bag in the refrigerator. Plastic is important to prevent moisture loss.

Here is a nutritional powerhouse breakfast featuring kiwe. For more terrific ways to enjoy nutritious kiwifruit, check out the "Home On The Range" section of this week's Lancaster Farming and the website www.zespri.com.

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup butter

4 large eggs, slightly beaten

Combine first four ingredients in the top of double boiler; bring water to a boil. Reduce heat to low, and cook until butter melts.

"You don't need to."

"But I like to "

"You don't have time "

"But if I want some later, maybe I won't find any"

And on and on and on. Finally, I got tired of the two forces in my brain arguing with each other over such a silly issue So I bought a handful of onion sets. Just in case

Yes, I can buy onions ready to use, and at very reasonable prices No, I probably don't have time to fool with planting my own Yes, by the time our garden will be ready to plant, onion sets will be history No, I don't have a clue where I'll plant them

Hey, the weather lately hasn't been conducive to sticking onion sets in the ground But with spring arriving this weekend, it soon should be And some warm, sunny afternoon, when I can no longer bear to not poke my fingers in the ground, history guarantees that the garden force of my brain will be taunting the more sensible one

"Told you so "

"Told me what?"

"Told you we should have gotten onion sets when we had the chance."

"Well, I got tired of listening to you, so when you weren't paying attention, I did. So there."

Nyah, nyah. . nyah, nyah, nyah.

And then we'll go find some corner of the flower bed. some spot that the sun splashes across most of the day, some spot not soggy with spring's pendulum weather, some spot where the tender onion tops will be handy to grab to add a snappy touch to a salad These two arguing forces in my head will unite in a common purpose, don a pair of garden gloves, grab a paper calf-feed bag as a barrier against the damp ground and kneel in communion with spring

And we will peacefully poke those onion sets into the soil Bask in the gentle warmth and promise of a new season of planting. A new season of hope and anticipation

Then the internal mental haggling of these two forces will roar into overdrive, as each trip to a market or retail center exposes us to all sorts of merchandise temptations of the gardening type We'll oogle the racks of seeds on display at area garden retailers. Ponder shelves overflowing with packs of summer bulbs. Drool at the early offerings of started hardy annuals and perennials and cool weather veggie plants.

"It's too early."

"But if I don't get them now, I might not find this variety later"

"There's no place to keep them; they'll get leggy until the garden is ready."

"Just hush up and get out of my way while I pay for this stuff"

Almost as bad as having squabbling kids But these two can't be banished to their rooms for a "time out."

For what it's worth, though, Mother Nature seems to have a similar problem, with her seasonal forces battering for control Her normal-season force took over during December, yanking the thermometer down to 10 degrees, blustering about, freezing up all my outside calf water buckets. After a month of big chill, her rebellious other half got the edge in the weather tug of war and jacked the heat up to about 70. Snow, sleet, freezing rain were mostly absent.

Until the rebel force had coaxed the crocus, pussy willow and daring couple of dandelions out of hiding. Then, while they were innocently taking a peek around the greening yard, Mother Nature's blustery boy came back and lobbed snowballs on their tender heads. And froze enough calf buckets that I could have built an igloo with the "cubes."

If Mother Nature can't keep her opposing forces in line, how guilty should I feel about mine?

So, the onion sets are cooling their heels in an appropriate storage spot, until Mom Nature cuffs her argumentative weather offspring in line.

And the peace of mind—a small bag if infant onions—cost me but a quarter

Preparing Our Children For Life In The 21st Century

The face of America is changing. We are, more than ever before, a nation composed of all the ethnicities and races of the earth. American's diversity in ethnicity and cultural characteristics will continue to grow.

According to the U.S. Census, between 1990 and the year 2030, the Caucasian population in this country is predicted to grow by 25 percent, while other ethnic populations will increase by 68 percent to 187 percent.

Yet, too often, we know little, if anything about one another's backgrounds and cultures. A few years from now, our school-aged youth will be working with all kinds of men and women — young and old, conservative, moderate, and liberal with various races, religions, ethnic backgrounds, and with different physical and mental strengths and challenges. Learning to understand and respect those who are different will go a long way toward preparing our future citizens for life in a culturally diverse society.

Clearly, the most influential people in young children's lives are their parents. Children quickly learn what behaviors, attitudes, and values will win approval or disapproval from parents. Children began developing attitudes about various groups in society as early as age three or four. In fact, some psychologists suggest that children are "culturally programmed" by age three. Parents have a tremendous opportunity and responsibility to help our children develop a high level of understanding, appreciation, and respect for individual differences in themselves and in others.

Opportunities to learn about people who are different from ourselves are more readily available in culturally diverse communities. However, this can be a challenge for those who live in communities where all families have similar backgrounds. Parents in such communities will need to make special efforts to encourage an appreciation for differences. The following are some ways parents can help children to value diversity.

1. Children are naturally curious and notice similarities and differences about people. Avoid ignoring these questions or changing the subject. Answer children's questions with simple explanations without shock or anger. Silence about differences feeds misunderstanding, fear, and even hostility.

Choose children's books and toys that include and represent persons of different races and ethnicities.

3. Visit museums that feature exhibits about a variety of cultures and religions.

4. Celebrate cultural events and attend religious services with friends of different faiths. Invite others to share your cultural and religious experiences.

5. Help children learn about the rich cultural histories of their own ancestors. Talk about the lifestyle, the values, the special celebrations, the foods, and the dress of grandparents and great-grandparents.

6. Confront prejudicial remarks heard on television or made by other children — for example, remarks about people with physical or mental challenges, people from different religions, people speaking in a different language, people who are poor.

7. Take advantage of opportunities for your children to develop pen-pal or email pal relationships with children from different backgrounds who may live in distant communities.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Thursday, December 3, Lancaster Farm Women #20 met at the home of Marion Hastings with Mary Shirk as co-hostess. Following the refreshments Mary had the devotions and read the Christmas Story and a poem "The Precious Gift of Christmas" by Helen Steiner Rice. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

The guest speaker was Nancy Wiker of the Penn State Cooperative Extension. She spoke on "Holiday Food and Food Safety" and gave many hints on safely preserving foods. She stated due to emerging bacteria today we should be very careful in preserving meats, it is different than years ago. The leftovers from a meal should be refrigerated at once. She was very interesting and informative.

Vice President Valeria Ferguson presided at the business meeting. She gave a report on the County Convention, also on the County Executive Board Meeting and then volunteered two buckets to be packed for the flood victims. The delegates for the State Convention are Valaria, Freda Wimer, and Anna Mary Groff.

Definite plans were made for the Christmas Party December 12 at Rhoads Restaurant. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner."

Lancaster Farm Women 20 met at the home of Helen Harnish with Vivian Trout as co-hostess in March. Following the luncheon, Vivian read the 47th Psalm and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was used.

For the Roll Call all 12 members wore something green. Helen Tout, Sunshine Committee, reported three cards were sent during the month and Dorothy Eckman mentioned the Christmas Party in December would be held at the Memorial United Methodist Church, Quarryville and that is where the April meeting will be held when members entertain guests.

Lancaster Society 24

The regular meeting of Lancaster Farm Women No. 24 was held February 23, hosted by Dot Witmer. The program was Game night.

The next meeting will be March 30, hosted by Cindy Yingling. The program will be a lecture by John E. Koop titled The Stuff & Nonsense Diet.

The program was very interesting as Miriam Layman gave a book review of the book titled "Mrs. Mike." She portrayed it in such a manner that one felt they were travelling with the lady all through her varied experiences and some were quite exciting.

The meeting was closed with singing "Brighten the Corner."

Berks Executive Board

The Executive Board of the Berks County Society of Farm Women met on March 1, at the Berks County Agriculture Center with 20 members in attendance. President Betsy Sattazahn thanked all Berks County Groups for the centerpieces, which they had made for the State Convention held in January.

Janet Schlegel gave an agribusiness report on a well attended meeting at the Agriculture Center about preserving farmland. She highlighted on some comments and concerns of those in attendance.

The county groups will volunteer to help at Bingo at Berks Heim on April 8. President Betsy Sattazaan reminded everyone about the Spring Rally to be held May 12, at the Holiday Inn West, Mechanicsburg. The cost is $15 per ticket.

Group #8 will be having a Benefit Basket Bingo, April 18, at 2 p.m. at the 4-H Center, Berks County. Proceeds benefit Kate Myers to help with medical expenses. The Executive Board donated $300 toward the program and suggested any help or donations would be greatly appreciated. Group #8 welcomes all who wish to participate or donate to this cause. For more information, call Jane Kramer (610) 488-1123. Please join us for a day of caring and sharing.

Berks Society 1

The February meeting was at the restaurant of John Haas in Oley. Fifteen members attended and had a delicious lunch. Business was conducted by President Gerry.

Berks Heim Bingo is April 8 at the Heim.

Spring Rally is May 12 at Holiday Inn West, Mechanicsburg.

Nutrition Fair Makes Learning Fun

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — You won't eat a nutritious diet unless you understand the Food Guide Pyramid and the need to follow a healthy lifestyle. But learning about nutrition is often boring and a bit confusing.

As a nutrition aide with Penn State's Extension Expanded Food Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP), Brenda Stallman's job is to help low-income families improve their diets by teaching nutrition and stretching food dollars.

The acronym EFNEP may sound a bit intimidating to some, but Stallman puts the most timid at ease when she's touting sound eating practices.

And she's always on the lookout to make learning about nutrition fun, understandable, and rememberable. Last year, Stallman came up with the idea for a Nutrition Fair in the heart of Lancaster City. The Fair was such a hit, that this year another one was held to coincide with March Nutrition Month.

Stallman coordinated the efforts of many agencies who work with inner city clientele. Each agency set up separate stations in the large community room of the Boys and Girls Club.

Everyone knows water is necessary for health, yet many people do not drink enough water, according to nurses representing the Wellness Program of St. Joseph Hospital.

Next to air, water is the element most necessary for survival. Water carries nutrients and oxygen to the cells through the blood and helps cool the body through perspiration. Water also helps lubricate joints.

Attendees at the fair could participate in body demographic screening. By stepping on an instrument that looks similar to a scale, the instrument was able to read the amount of water in the body in relation to fat and bones. Most people participating found out they were not drinking enough water.

By not drinking enough water, many people incur excess body fat, poor muscle tone and size, decreased digestive efficiency and organ function, increased toxicity in the body, joint and muscle soreness, and water retention.

The minimum water for a healthy person is 8-10 glasses a day. More is needed if you're exercising or if the weather is hot.

"If you are doing any physical activity, drink an additional 16-ounces water prior to exercise and 8- to 16-ounces water after physical activity to recover," the instructor told participants.

Calcium intake is important to the health of everyone regardless of age. One of the best sources of calcium is milk, yet many people do not drink milk because they believe it is fattening. Although skim milk includes all the nutrients of whole milk without the fat calories, many people do not drink skim milk because they formed the misconception that skim milk doesn't taste good.

To show how difficult it is to differentiate among the different milk available, people could participate in the Milk Challenge. Unmarked paper cups were filled with milk in whole, 2%, 1%, and skim milk denominations. Participants were supposed to identify the milk by its taste.

"No one has got them all right," said an EFNEP adviser of the results of the Milk Challenge. "This proves that people can substitue skim or lower-fat milk without sacrificing flavor."

Another health concern related to diet is blood pressure. High intakes of sodium are known to raise blood pressure in some sodium-sensitive individuals. Almost all foods have some sodium, which is an essential nutrient in the functioning of muscles, nerves, blood pressure, and blood volume. The problem is that the average person consumes much more sodium that what is considered a adequate level.

Participants were taught to choose nutritious snacks instead of those high in calories, fat, and sodium.

This mother and her children take a break to enjoy some of the food served at the Nutrition Fair.

Clowns from the Washington Elementary School provide entertainment and participate in some of the activities such as the hopscotch nutrition game.

Homestead Notes

Participants were encouraged to take a quiz to assess their sodium intake. While high sodium sources include cured and processed meats, canned vegetables, processed cheeses, salted nuts, and pretzels, many are surprised to find that a pickle contains 1,400 milligrams of sodium compared to 252 miligrams in a serving of chips.

Ideas for eating healthy snacks included a table where children could concoct a snack by forming a butterfly from celery filled with peanut butter or cream cheese, pretzel twists, pretzel sticks, and raisins.

There were activities for those of all ages.

"You are never too young to learn to choose healthy food that builds strong bones and healthy bodies," Stallman said.

Here are some of the recipes distributed to Nutrition Fair visitors.

Orange or Pineapple Julius

1 cup frozen orange juice concentrate
1½ cups milk
1½ cups water
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
20 ice cubes, crushed if possible

Make sure the lid is tightly closed and then the fun begins.

Shake, shake, shake until all ingredients are well mixed. Pour into eight glasses and enjoy!

You can use a blender to make it extra creamy. Substitute pineapple juice for the orange juice for a refreshing change.

Peter Pumpkin Squares

16-ounce can pumpkin
1½ cups brown sugar
4 eggs
¾ cup cooking oil
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups rolled oats
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, stir together pumpkin, brown sugar, eggs, and oil until well mixed. Combine flour, oats, cinnamon, baking powder, and baking soda.

Add flour mixture to pumpkin mixture and mix well.

Pour into greased 13x9x2-inch baking pan.

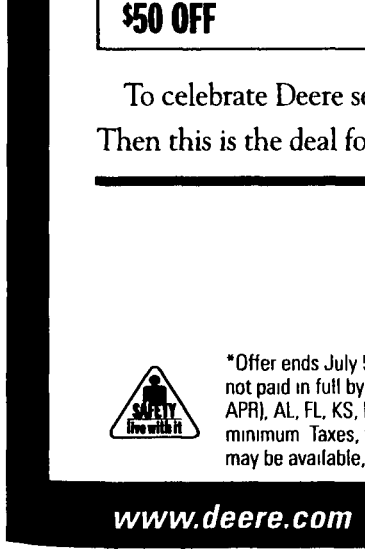
Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

Three Vie For Pennsylvania Jersey Queen Title

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — Who will be the 1999 Pennsylvania Jersey Queen?

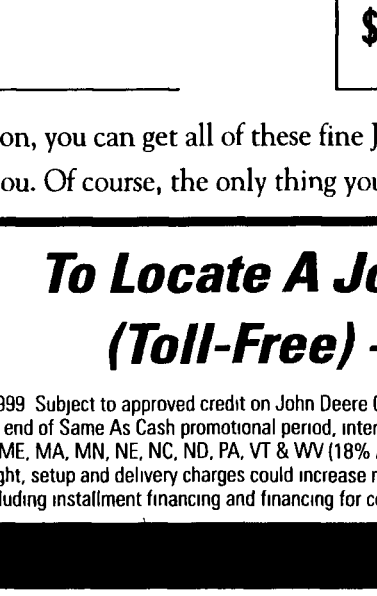
That question will be answered as Corissa Coolbaugh, Crystal Rassau, and Heather Yurkanin compete for the title at the Pennsylvania Jersey Club's annual meeting, April 9 and 10, at the Shadowbrook Convention Center in Tunkhannock, Wyoming County.

Coolbaugh is the 15-year-old daughter of David and Cynthia Coolbaugh of Canton. As a junior member of the PJCA, she owns seven Jerseys and has shown for nine years. She is also a member of the Busy Bees 4-H Club and has participated in Jersey shows on the local, district and state levels. She has also judged cattle as a member of the Bradford County 4-H judging team and has served as a Bradford County Dairy Maid for two years. Besides doing the work of a tenth grade student, she is also involved in the marching band, jazz band, Independent Baptist Church youth group and puppet team.



Corissa Coolbaugh

Crystal Rassau



Heather Yurkanin

"I would like the opportunity to be the Pennsylvania Jersey Queen because I love the Jersey breed," Coolbaugh says. "I would like to be able to have the opportunity to tell others more about the Jersey breed and their importance to the dairy industry."

A high school senior, Crystal Rassau, of Sarver, is active in both the Lenape AVTS FFA Chapter and the Butler County 4-H Dairy Club. She enjoys showing her Jerseys and has participated in shows at numerous county fairs, the Pennsylvania Farm Show, the All-American Dairy Show and the National Jersey Show in Louisville, Ky. The 18-year-old daughter of Charles and Patricia Rassau is proud to be the first female president of her FFA Chapter, is active in many community service projects, has judged cattle at various judging contests and has participated in regional and state demonstration and public speaking contests.

The owner of 22 Jerseys, Rassau cites her experiences with Jerseys as being one of the most influential parts of her life.

"I want others to have the same satisfying experience and to know the Jerseys as well as I do. That is why I would like to be Pennsylvania's Jersey Queen, so I can finally give back to the Jersey breed and industry what they have given me," Rassau said.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

The other day I was looking through an 1870 Baer's almanac that my Grandmother Landis saved. It covers a wide variety of subjects.

The first page is a big article on the profits of fish farming. It tells of a man in New York who invested $700 in yearlings and sold $6,000 worth at the end of a year. They even mention putting surplus eggs in public waters. And, this was in the year 1870.

One story that got my attention was about a father and son going to the woods for lumber. The little boy questioned his father about the use of the wood and was told it was for a trough for his grandfather. The old man lived with them and had become quite weak, trembly and also was blind — he had lived too long. Thus, he spilled food on the floor and broke dishes.

The little boy agreed that a trough was a good idea and continued by telling his father that when he got old and blind, the boy would build a trough for him. This caused the father to think and remember all that his father had done for him. From that time on the old man was cared for kindly.

There were many recipes in the 1870 almanac. Some were for food but most of them were to cure ailments such as rattlesnake bite, blistered feet, and rheumatism. One told how to get rid of bed bugs. Take four egg whites and mix with 10 cents worth of quicksilver. Take a feather and dip into the preparation and brush on every part of your bed once a year.

Two of the things mentioned were things that my relatives practiced. My grandmother used egg whites to glue her broken dishes. And, my aunt scattered wet, used coffee grounds on the rag carpet in the kitchen before sweeping it every morning. Oh, how much easier it is to wipe up spills on my tile-covered floor. I don't think that we begin to appreciate the conveniences that we have in the year 1999 — 129 years later.

ANSWER — Ruth Helman, Chambersburg, wanted directions and recipes to make homemade cream filled doughnuts. Thanks to Marlene Martin, Ephrata, for sending this recipe.

Potato Doughnuts

1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup milk, scalded
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup mashed potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
5 to 6 cups flour
1 pound confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoons vanilla extract
4-8 tablespoons hot water

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Combine milk, shortening, sugar, and salt. Cool until lukewarm. Stir in yeast, potatoes, and eggs. Gradually add enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn onto floured surface. Knead until smooth and satiny. Place in a lightly greased bowl, turn over to grease top. Cover, let rise in a warm place until doubled, 1-1½ hours.

Roll to ½-inch thickness. Cut with 3-inch biscuit cutter. Cover; let rise until doubled, about 30 minutes. Stir confectioners' sugar, vanilla, and enough water to make a smooth glaze. Fry doughnuts in 375-degree fat. Drain on absorbent paper. Drop hot doughnuts into glaze. Place on cooling rack until glaze is set. Or, instead of glaze, roll cooled doughnuts in confectioners' sugar.

Fill cool doughnuts with your favorite cream filling or the following recipe:

2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup milk
4-5 tablespoons shortening

Combine ingredients and beat 15 minutes or until fluffly.

Thanks to Rhoda Mast, Morgantown, for sending this recipe. The filling has uncooked egg whites in it. We recommend using powdered meringue in place of the egg whites. The powder meringue can be found in large supermarkets.

Cream-Filled Doughnuts

4 packages yeast
1 cup warm water
4 cups lukewarm milk (scald and cool)
1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup sugar
4 teaspoons salt
4 eggs, slightly beaten
14 cups flour

Dissolve 4 packages yeast in 1 cup warm water. Combine all other ingredients and add dissolved yeast. Gradually add 14 cups flour, beating constantly. Knead 15 minutes. Let rise 2 hours or until doubled. Work down, let rise one hour. Roll and cut. Put on sheets to rise approximately 30 minutes. Fry in deep fat at 350 degrees until golden brown on both sides. Cool. Make hole in doughnut side and insert filling with a cookie press.

Filling:

4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1½ cups shortening
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
8 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons flour
4 teaspoons vanilla
7¾ cups confectioners' sugar

Cream together egg whites, shortening, and confectioners' sugar. Add remaining ingredients and whip until fluffy. If uncooked egg whites are used, these must be kept refrigerated or frozen until ready to eat.

Kids Participate In Nutrition Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Happy things to do, good things to eat, funny things to see, and lots of things to learn were at the Nutrition Fair held last week at the Girls and Boys Club, Lancaster.

Providing entertainment were 20 students from the Washington Elementary School. Students from the learning support class dressed as clowns and twisted balloons into animals shapes and helped preschoolers complete spin art projects and other activities.

Mary Lou Cook, teacher, has had great success in incorporating clowning into teaching students with learning problems.

Students who show cooperation in the classroom, demonstrate social skills, and follow directions are rewarded by being allowed to participate in clowning activities outside the classroom. The Nutrition Fair is only one of many events that Cook and the clowns are invited to perform.

"Clowning has really helped the students to do well in the Soar to Success Reading Program we have at school," Cook said.

Children are never too young to learn about nutrition.

In the program, students develop reading skills by learning to question, predict, sound out phonetics, and summarize stories. The students try harder in the classroom when they know the reward is clowning.

Consequences are given to students who do not follow directions or who cause classroom disturbances. Happy the Clown reported that he had to miss 30 minutes of the clowning program because he was given a consequence for misbehavior.

He said, "I think it is good to be given consequences because it helps me learn to pay attention. I love clowning and I don't want to miss it."

Student teachers Babs and Buster led some of the clowns in magic tricks, such as catching rain in a container despite no raindrops falling.

While the clowning tricks were not nutrition related, they provided an atmosphere of fun and encouraged children to participate in learning more about nutrition.

Children were taught to select foods that build strong, healthy bodies. At one table, children made Butterfly Bites (see picture with directions).

It may be a bit early for Easter, but children colored Easter eggs and found out that eggs are a nutritious food to eat.

Children line up for face painting at the Nutrition Fair.

Lancaster County Alternate Dairy Princess Jamie Horning handed out "I Love Milk" stickers.

To make Butterfly Bites, spread a stick of celery with peanut butter or cream cheese for the body of the butterfly. Add a pretzel twist to each side for its wings. Two pretzel sticks can be used for antennae. Decorate with raisins.

National Brown Swiss Queen Elizabeth Smith encourages children to drink milk.

Horse Farms To Hold Open House

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Twenty-one professional stables in the southeastern quadrant of Pennsylvania will open their doors to the public for the seventh annual "Pennsylvania Horse Farms Open House," to be held Saturday and Sunday, March 27 and 28.

The open house is a chance for would-be equestrians to visit a variety of Pennsylvania's professional horse farms, to learn about various breeds and styles of riding, about raising, caring for and training horses and to explore the many opportunities for getting involved with horses right in their own backyards.

The event, produced by Pennsylvania Equestrian, is free and self-guided, and individuals travel from stable to stable in their own vehicles. The farms are open to visitors from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday.

New this year a number of stables will invite visitors to take a sample riding lesson, trail ride, pony ride or wagon ride, or to come back at a later date to try one of their horses.

The Pennsylvania Horse Farms Open House is sponsored by Cargill Nutrena Feeds and State Line Tack.

Visitors to the open house can partake of sample riding, jumping and even "yoga on horseback" lessons, take a trail ride or a pony ride, visit a petting zoo, audit a dressage clinic conducted by a nationally-known trainer, shop at a used tack sale, and watch an American Horse Shows Association B-rated horse show. Demonstrations of the latest horseshoeing, equine massage and dentistry techniques will be held, along with clinics on foaling, genetics and foal imprinting. Most farms will offer refreshments, and a number will have vendors on-site for visitors who want to do a little shopping. Many stables will have young foals to enjoy. Visitors will be able to view horses offered for sale and stallions available for breeding.

Breeds of horses range from popular thoroughbreds, Paints and quarter horses to the more unusual Paso Finos, a breed that began in North America with horses brought to the New World by the Spanish Conquistadors. The rarest breed on display during the Open House is the Rocky Mountain Horse, a hardy, versatile breed that originated in the Appalachian Mountain foothills of Kentucky and North Carolina. There are less than 5,000 horses of this breed alive today and the breed is listed on the U.S. Conservancies endangered species list.

With more than 174,000 horses, Pennsylvania ranks fifth in the nation in generation of income from the horse industry, and Pennsylvanians spend nearly two-thirds of a billion dollars a year on their horses. Most of that industry is clustered in the southeastern quadrant of the state, where the open house is centered.

Complete information on the farms, including maps and directions, will be featured in the March/April issue of Pennsylvania Equestrian, a bi-monthly newspaper for and about Pennsylvania's horse industry, and on the World Wide Web at www.horseshow.com.

The tour is free. For more information phone (717) 898-5874.

Mrs. Laura Ridge and her son Pennsylvania Governor Tom Ridge appear on farmer-funded billboards in support of the dairy industry.

Gov. Ridge Asks Pennsylvanians, 'Got Milk?'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge and his mom have teamed up with the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and are asking Pennsylvanians if they've "got milk?".

Building on the success of the celebrity milk mustache campaign, PDPP enlisted the help of a notable statewide public figure to extend milk promotion at the local level. Sponsored by PDPP, Gov. Tom Ridge is the first statewide public official who will appear in the farmer-funded "got milk?" outdoor advertisement as part of the fluid milk promotion efforts.

"My mom and I are glad to have the opportunity to encourage Pennsylvanians to drink milk — it's good for you and it tastes good too," Gov. Ridge said. "We hope the billboards remind other parents and children that drinking your milk can give you the healthy body and strong bones to take you where you want to go!" Gov. Ridge also notes that milk is Pennsylvania's official state beverage and milk production is a big part of the state's economy.

To help enhance the image of milk and support Pennsylvania's dairy industry, the governor and his mother, Laura Ridge, are pictured wearing milk mustaches and clinking glasses of milk as they toast Pennsylvania's dairy industry. Gov. Ridge is seated on the arm of a chair beside his mother. The caption reads, "Mom always said I'd go far if I drink my milk, 'got milk?'."

The primary target audience of the advertisement is adults. In addition, moms are a secondary audience as Mrs. Ridge serves as a role model reminding moms to reinforce good nutritional messages to their children.

The billboards can be seen in several media markets in western Pennsylvania including Johnstown/Altoona, Erie, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, State College and Williamsport. There will also be billboards posted in the Wilkes-Barre/Scranton market made possible by American Dairy Association & Dairy Council, Inc.

Gov. Ridge, the 43rd governor of Pennsylvania, elected to office in 1995, was recently re-elected to his second term. Gov. Ridge and his wife Michele have two children.

In 1998, milk production was a leading segment of the state's agricultural industry with annual sales of $1.72 billion at the farm level alone. Pennsylvania is the fourth largest dairy producing state in the nation with 1.2 billion gallons of milk produced each year. Pennsylvania ranks third in ice cream production, fourth in butter production and sixth in cheese production.

JoAnna DeBlock Crowned New York State Dairy Princess

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — JoAnna DeBlock, New Hampton, was crowned the 1999-2000 New York State Dairy Princess on February 16, at the Holiday Inn in Liverpool, N.Y.

Having served as the Orange County Dairy Princess since spring, DeBlock will devote an additional year promoting milk and dairy products in conjunction with the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). As state princess, DeBlock received a $1,200 scholarship and will represent ADADC at county dairy princess pageants, farm meetings, and a variety of special events. 4-H Potato Judging Team Takes First Place

The Adams County 4-H Potato Judging Team took first place in the state potato judging contest at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg. Contestants from throughout the commonwealth competed in three specific areas that require knowledge of potato defects, judgement skills, and team spirit

This year's state winning team included Brian Baldwin, Jason Keller, George Leister, Jr., and BJ Wagner. The Adams County team posted a team score of 1331 points, followed by York at 1312.6 points; Lehigh at 1305.3 points; Indiana at 1278 55 points; Lycoming at 1261.75 points; and Lancaster at 1221 5 points Other participants in the event for Adams County included Amy Flickinger, Summer Chronister, and Katy Baldwin Team coach was Jerry Tyson, assisted by former potato judge participant, Jessi Leister.

The potato judging contest is comprised of three parts. First part is to identify defects in forty potatoes and the second part is placing two classes of potatoes. A class is composed of four plates — each plate should contain five potatoes. The third part is grading 100 potatoes to determine if they meet USDA Grade A standards (a timed event) A total of 300 points is possible between parts two and three Part three is scored both for correct grading (two points/potato) and time used (10 points lost for each minute used to grade 100 potatoes).

On the team portion of the contest the lowest individual score is dropped to reach total team points.

Each participant is also competing on an individual basis This year the top individual in the state was from Adams County. George Leister scored 454 points. He competed against 40 contestants for the individual title. Top five teams received both ribbons and monetary awards from the farm show.

4-H HAPPENINGS

4-H Teens Learn That Character Counts

Nearly every day we hear about teens in trouble — those who have made decisions that land them in a court, and often in jail.

Top students have recently reported that declining moral standards is the most pressing issue of their generation. Employers of young people concur. While most believe that character development in young people should begin at home, everyone in a community can play a supporting role in helping teens to make decisions that will lead them to become caring, competent, and contributing members of society.

From March 5-7, 10 teens from Gloucester County were part of a delegation of 170 4-H teens joining together to explore the concept of character education and ethical decision-making as they took part in the 1999 South Jersey 4-H Teen Conference. Teens from throughout New Jersey, including Katie McKee, Woodstown; Katie and Elizabeth Smith, Turnersville; Mike Nomura, Turnersville; Amanda Buck, Mantua; Chris and Sandy Petsch, Clayton; Suzan Chanoux, Wenonah; Ryan Henry, Turnersville; Stephanie Fazzio, Turnersville; and Jonathan Means, Glassboro, [redacted] attend this annual event, held at the Bridgeport Holiday Inn. The 4-H Youth Development Program of Rutgers Cooperative Extension sponsors the conference.

This year's conference, "4-H — It's all about character, Baby," will provide participants with an introduction to the Character Counts! Program developed by the Josephson Institute. Through interactive activities led by certified trainer T.C. Buchanan, Hunterdon County 4-H agent, teens will learn about the Six Pillars of Character and how to incorporate these values into their daily lives. Other conference activities include social and recreational activities, as well as a field trip to Philadelphia.

Deckertown Community 4-H Club

The Deckertown Community 4-H Club held its first business meeting of 1999 at the Deckertown Grange.

President Glen Mackey discussed buying club T-shirts, doing community service at the Bailey Apartments in Nicholson, collecting aluminum cans for recycling, and attending the 4-H Day at Knoebels.

Reports about the Blue Ribbon Party and County Council were given. For fun, "4-H Project" Hangman was played, and everyone began to work on Exploring Citizenship III-My Clubs and Groups as a project.

The club also held a business meeting on Friday, Feb. 26 at the Deckertown Grange. To start the meeting off, Margaret Klees and April Kern gave a demonstration on making blueberry muffins. Afterward, the club learned about the presentation contest and the parts of a presentation.

It was determined that the club will be unable to work at a recycling center due to 4-H safety regulations.

A report was given about the success of the Leader's Workshop. A tentative calendar for the year was established including roller-skating, a bike hike, community service projects at Bailey Apartments in Nicholson, swimming, and bowling.

During the February meeting, Cindy Stahl announced her resignation as organizational leader of Elm-Penryn 4-H Community Club. One or more adult volunteers are needed as organizational assistant leaders to help her carry out the remaining club activities scheduled for April through the middle of Augusts.

Additionally, one or more adult volunteers are needed as organization leaders willing to organize and coordinate the club's future activities. If you are willing to serve the children of the Manheim and surrounding communities as an organizational assistant leader or as an organizational leader, contact Katina Showman at the county 4-H office, (717) 394-6851.

Dairy Of Distinction Program Again Seeks Nice Looking Farms

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) - Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy of Distinction Program of Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program that oversees the Distinction program was first started in 1983 in Pennsylvania to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by the farm.

The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are all areas taken into consideration when a team of judges takes a look at your farm from a roadside point of view. Judging is conducted during the month of May. Award winners are announced during your local June Dairy Month activities.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk.

Applications are available for Pennsylvania dairy farms from Michael O'Conner, 324 Henning Building, Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802. Phone: (814) 863-3913.

For New York State applications are available from Carol Keene, RD 1, Box 31, Gilbertsville, NY 13776. Phone: (607) 783-2169.

For New Jersey applications, send to: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867. Phone: (908) 735-4989.

For Vermont applications, send to: Elisa Clancy, Vermont Department of Agriculture, 16 State St., Drawer 20, Montpelier, VT 05620-2901. Phone: (802) 828-3835.

All applications must be completed and returned to your respective state secretary by April 15, 1999.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in cooperation with many local agribusiness organizations. The program is conducted with advice and help from Penn State Cooperative Extension.

ANSWER — John Telford, Swampscott, Mass., sent directions for making soap out of wood ashes, in answer to Meridith Blum, Chestnut Ridge, N.Y.

Place wood ashes in wooden or plastic barrel and fill with water. After three or more days, drain the liquid into a container used for soap making. CAUTION: the liquid is very caustic. Water leaches potassium out of the ash into the form of pottasium hydroxide, a close cousin to lye. Wear gloves and eye protection. Boil the liquid and add whatever fat or oil desired. Scoop the soap particles out of the batch and press into molds. Olive oil makes fine facial soap. Lard and tallow make stronger soaps.

Thanks to Durwood Tuttle, Knoxville, who writes that he doesn't believe that special doe licenses were offered during those years in Montgomery County. In 1951, doe season was the first two days before buck season. "We hunted doe on Monday and Tuesday and then buck on Wednesday," Tuttle writes. He's from Tioga County, which may be different from Montgomery, he writes, but this may be why Charles can't locate the license.

Guard Against Burglars

You don't have to be a crime expert to protect your home from burglars. You don't have to spend a lot of money, either. You can make sure burglars don't find your house an easy target by taking some, or all, of these steps:

- Keep your house locked, even when you're in it. (Windows too.) If you move to a new home, change the locks.
- Never hide a key under the doormat, over the door or anyplace else. Instead, leave a key with a trusted neighbor.
- Be alert for suspicious characters in your neighborhood. If you're not sure, call the police anyway.
- Don't put your name on your mailbox.
- Avoid giving information to unidentified telephone callers.
- Don't use an answering machine to proclaim your absence. Leave a message that you're busy and will return the call soon.
- Make a complete inventory of all your possessions. Take photos, record purchase prices and dates, and jot down serial numbers of appliances. Store the completed inventory in your safe-deposit box. The better your inventory, the better your chances of recovering stolen items and receiving a full and prompt settlement from your insurance company.
- Mark your valuables permanently with an engraving tool. (Ask the police for information.) Place a warning sticker in your window to discourage burglars.
- If you're victimized, report your loss, however, small, to the police. If you don't, the police won't be able to solve the crime or recover stolen items.
- Support a Town Watch program in your community.

LOTS OF VEGETABLES TO MARKET THIS SUMMER?

I have received calls from tobacco growers wanting information on producing vegetables. With the low prices for tobacco the last two years, I expect that many tobacco growers will look to alternate crops this season to provide income. I also expect that vegetables will be one of the crops that are planted, particularly sweet corn and pumpkins.

I encourage ALL vegetable growers to examine their production and marketing plans for the upcoming growing season. We can only sell so much corn and pumpkins at the auctions, and if there is excess production, prices will fall.

Experienced growers should start by looking at their records from past growing seasons and determine which were the most profitable vegetables grown. Perhaps you should focus on these crops and really refine your growing techniques to increase production efficiency and, I hope, profits. Focus your energies on vegetables you can produce well. If you have trouble getting consistent yields off a certain crop, then perhaps this is the year to let someone else grow that particular crop!

After you have decided which vegetables you are going to produce, you need to examine your marketing plan. Since there may be more of that particular vegetable produced this year, how will you be sure to sell your crop at a reasonable profit? Start by adding one new marketing method. If you have only sold at an auction in the past, look for another sale outlet for the crop.

Can you sell to a local roadside stand or supermarket? Do you produce enough to sell to a local wholesaler? If not, could you combine your produce with other growers in order to have enough to interest a wholesaler?

Many growers complain about lower prices from wholesalers, but if you build a relationship with them at the start of the season and can give them a steady, reliable amount of produce they will work with you to provide a reasonable price for your product throughout the season.

If there is an oversupply of a particular vegetable this year, what will distinguish your crop from the next grower's and make a buyer want to buy yours, or even pay a higher price for your crop? Start by selecting the best varieties for your particular market. If you are selling to a wholesaler, then grow varieties that can stand up to the rigors of shipping. However, if you are selling on the fresh market, then grow only the best-tasting varieties! By planning your marketing strategies now you can grow the varieties that will work the best.

Also, grow disease-resistant varieties whenever possible. This may help you reduce the amount of sprays needed or possibly save your crop if the weather favors disease development. And whatever you grow, leave the poor quality produce in the field! By only selling the very best you will help keep prices higher.

New growers need to closely examine their level of growing expertise and all marketing options before planting any vegetables. The worst thing a person can do is plant vegetables first and then go looking for a market when harvest starts. Planning on selling your entire crop at the auction is a risky venture. What will you do if the price falls below your production costs? If you lost money on tobacco the last two years, can you afford to loose more money on vegetables? Talk to friends and neighbors about possible crops for your area as well as reading any information about possible crops before planting. Vegetables can be a very profitable crop if you have done your part by having a good marketing plan.

Vegetables and Manure

There has been a great deal written about food safety lately. One area of concern is the use of animal manure on food crops.

There is a possibility that bacteria and/or parasites may be present in the manure. Rather than chance a problem on your farm, I urge you to only apply manure to non-horticultural crops such as small grains, field corn, or pastures.

There have been documented reposts of vegetables being contaminated with bacteria from fresh manure but this was usually from close to the actual animal confinement area. I have not seen where vegetables were contaminated from field applications of manure but I think the risk is too great to take. Rather than risk contamination of your crop, keep the manure away from your vegetables.

Brown Rot Control In Strawberries

Now is the time to start to control brown rot if you grow strawberries using the plasiculture system. Brown rot overwinters in the dead leaves and other plant materials around your strawberries. Research has shown a reduction in brown rot on the berries later in the season if this source of the disease is removed now.

Take advantage of the weather and send a crew through the field, removing as much of the dead plant material as possible. Ideally, you should remove this material from the field, but I realize that this is not realistic. But getting the dead materials away from the flowers should help reduce diseases, especially when the weather is only marginal for the spread of the disease.

Soon you will be placing the covers over your plants to encourage early flowering, at which time you will not be able to complete this operation. So take advantage of this slow time of the year to start your strawberry disease control program.

Pesticide Container Recycling

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Bureau of Plant Industry will administer a plastic pesticide container recycling program throughout the state in 1999. Pick-up of containers in Lancaster County will occur in May, June, July, and August at eight different sites.

A schedule of exact times and locations for container recycling can be obtained at my office (or your local extension office if you live in another county) during normal business hours. The listing also contains information on how to properly prepare containers for pick-up. Improper preparation will result in rejection of your containers, so be sure to read the instructions if you have not participated in this program before.

Conservation District Hosts Workshop

LEHIGHTON (Carbon Co.) — The Carbon County Conservation District was recently involved in a contractors' and equipment operators' workshop at the Holiday Inn, Bethlehem.

The workshop was sponsored in part by the Carbon County Conservation District in conjunction with Berks, Lehigh, Monroe, and Northampton County conservation districts.

Approximately 76 contractors and heavy equipment operators from the five-county region were in attendance and informed of the latest techniques in erosion and sedimentation control. In addition, presentations were given by representatives of the Pennsylvania One Call System, Pennsylvania Fish & Boat Commission, Pennsylvania OSHA Program, Heavy Equipment Education Program of Carbon/Lehigh Vocational Technical School, and many other governing agencies.

Vendors were also available at the one day affair, providing the latest information on new products available for E&S control during earthmoving and other areas of construction.

Dave Horvath, Carbon County Conservation District technician, said, "I believe it is a very beneficial learning experience for those wishing to become involved.

For anyone interested in attending future workshops, the conservation district office can be reached by calling (610) 377-4894.

Survey Of Cattle Feeders

A telephone survey was recently conducted of cattle feeders in southeastern Pennsylvania. The purpose of the survey was to discover some details about the extent and management of these feedlots and to gain a perception of the veterinary care that was available to these feedlot operators. Eighty-five responses were recorded.

Of those polled, the range in size of the cattle feeding enterprises was eight to 2,500 head, with an average of 267 head. At least 10 of the respondents were feeding 500 head or more annually. These results indicate most feeders are small, primarily farmer-feeders who are using the cattle feeding enterprise as a part of a diversified farm.

More than half of all the purchased cattle are yearlings, with more than 48 percent of the feeders exclusively feeding these older cattle. About 30 percent feed both yearlings and calves. These results indicate a large proportion of feeder cattle originate outside of Pennsylvania, a fact well-known in the Pennsylvania livestock industry. Virginia and West Virginia are generally known as the source for most feeder cattle in feedlots in this region. This also indicates that an opportunity exists to fill the needs for feeder cattle by expansion of the grazing and backgrounding programs for feeder cattle in Pennsylvania.

The mortality rate in the surveyed lots averaged 1.7 percent, which follows from the large proportion of yearlings on feed. However, of the 10 largest feeders polled, nine indicated their death losses were 1 percent or less. This follows since the management level may be higher in these larger lots and the proportion of yearlings on feed is higher. Additionally, nearly 100 percent of the health practices performed in the larger lots were done by the operator, and this was true for more than 80 percent of the respondents.

For the average lot of 267 head, the average amount spent on drugs and implants was about $1,000. This cost of less than $5 per head would indicate an extensive vaccination, parasite control, and implant program was not done on many farms. This was indeed the case, with operators of lots of up to 500 head indicating no expenses for these products.

These results could be caused by several factors. First, yearling cattle would require less preventative health care than calves. Secondly, some of these practices may be performed by the previous owner as a management and/or marketing tool. Finally, there may be less use of implants and parasite controls than could be used to increase net returns. A complete analysis of these expenditures needs to be done to be sure operators are taking advantage of the benefits of growth promotants and preventative health care.

In regards to the perceptions of the veterinary care available, the ratings were very high. On a scale of 1-none available to 10=extraordinarily good, the average rating was 7.8. However, the 10 largest feeders were less satisfied, with an average rating of 5.7 for this group.

The veterinarians' interest in the cattle feeding enterprise (88 percent positive— and the level of expertise to service the enterprise (86 percent positive) were very high. Again, the dissatisfaction level for the 10 largest producers was greater (63 percent positive). These mixed results can be interpreted as veterinary care is generally very good, but some focus on the cattle feeding enterprise, particularly for larger feeders, by area veterinarians would be well received.

In summary, this survey confirmed some things generally known about the cattle feeding business in southeastern Pennsylvania in terms of size and management. The operators are generally marketing their crops through cattle. The cattle usually originate outside of Pennsylvania. Veterinary care could be improved, particularly for the larger cattle feeders in the region.

Program Rescheduled

The cattle feeders program originally scheduled for March 24 in New Holland has been postponed until a later date.

NEW FOREST PEST ON THE PROWL

Adam Downing
Warren Co. Cooperative Extension Agent
Don Wary
Bureau of Forestry District Forester

The Asian Longhorned Beetle (Anoplophora Glabripennis), as the name implies, has long "horns." The antenna, however, are not the scariest part.

This creature has the potential to be the next forest catastrophe on par with the Dutch elm disease.

Infestations, primarily on maple species trees and horsechestnut trees, have been found in Brooklyn and Amityville, N.Y., and Chicago, Ill.

Infested trees are basically eaten alive. Larvae eat their way through trees and emerge as adults from a hole 3/8 inch in diameter.

Native to Japan, Korea, and southern China, it arrived in the U.S. for the first time on packing crates. Unlike most tree pests, this insect attacks healthy and sick trees alike.

The good news is that it has only been found in the New York city area and Chicago. Scientists are closely tracking the progression. If found, very aggressive efforts are taken to stop the spread

The Asian Longhorned beetle has not been found in Pennsylvania — yet. With antenna up to two times its 1-1¼ inch length, most people should have no problem identifying this new pest. If its size doesn't give it away, its black and white distinctly banded antenna and black body with white spots will.

If you think you find the beetle or evidence of it, call your county extension office, The Bureau of Forestry, The Forest Service (603) 868-7709, APHIS (508) 563-9303, or the Pennsylvania Dept. of Agriculture (814) 332-6890.

Cattlemen's Association To Offer Scholarship

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PCA) has announced it will make a $1,000 scholarship available to a young person planning a career related to the cattle industry. Funding for this scholarship is provided through PCA's participation in the Ivomec: Generations Of Excellence™ program, sponsored by Merial.

"Nothing is more important than providing a sound education for tomorrow's producers," according to Bill McCoy, president of PCA. "Those planning to work in the changing cattle industry into the next century will need to be proficient in animal and crop sciences, business economics, and communications. That's why PCA is providing a $1000 Ivomec Scholarship to help a deserving young cattleman or cattlewoman prepare for the future."

The PCA Ivomec Scholarship will be awarded based on the applicant's interest in the industry, leadership, academic achievement, and organizational involvement Interested youth who are members of the Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association or whose parents are PCA members should request application forms directly from the PCA office.

"We are pleased to team up with Ivomec to offer this very special scholarship opportunity to a young person in Pennsylvania," said McCoy "There's no question that education, along with practical experience, is the key to the future competitiveness of the U S cattle industry. Offering this scholarship is just one of the ways in which PCA is helping prepare and develop tomorrow's leaders."

For more information, contact the PCA office at (717) 986-0333.

Keystone Junior Beef Classic May 29-30

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — The Northwest Keystone Junior Beef Classic is scheduled at the Butler County Fairgrounds Memorial Day weekend, May 29-30.

This will be the 14th year for the all-breed steer and heifer show that draws cattle and exhibitors from five states. It gives youth under 21 years of age an opportunity to enter competition drawn from a larger area than usually seen at the county fairs in which they compete during the summer.

Exhibitors do not have to be 4-H or FFA members to participate. A friendly, helpful atmosphere, along with a very reasonable $12 entry fee, make this the perfect preview show for beginning showmen.

The three-day Memorial Day weekend allows Monday for rest and recuperation, since the open cattle show is scheduled on Sunday. The Pennsylvania Junior Polled Hereford Association will hold their spring show in conjunction with the Classic as they did last year. Their show is slated for 12:30 p.m. Saturday. Following that, the always popular Classic Showmanship Contest will get under way. A Skillathon will be held later Saturday afternoon, followed by a Pizza Party. A Trade Show featuring businesses that help sponsor the show will be open both days.

Sunday brings the real excitement when the steer and breeding classes are judged. In the heifer show, premiums will be paid for all classes and trophies will be awarded for grand champion, reserve champion, and bred and owned. Registered heifers will show by breed and commercial classes will be held for unregistered heifers. A prize of $200 will be awarded to the supreme champion heifer of the show.

The popular county steer classes will again be offered for any county (from any state) that has five or more preregistered steers. County winners will win a jackpot of $10 times the number of steers shown in the class. Clubs and county groups can easily coordinate plans for the group to participate, and someone from each county will win the jackpot. Last year eight counties had enough entries to have their own jackpot class. There is also an all others division, for those not having enough entries for a county class. The county champions will then compete with the all others champion for grand champion steer with a prize of $250, and reserve champion steer with a prize of $100.

Entry forms will be mailed to past participants. For more information or entry forms, contact your county extension agent or Beth Wingard, show secretary, (814) 782-3992, or write Northwest Keystone Junior Beef Classic, c/o Bob Calvert, Mercer County Extension Office, P.O. Box 530, Mercer, PA 16137.

She just freshened - How long until she reaches her peak?

Reduce the chance of milk fevers and DA's by targeting each ration to each group of cows. The NDA Vertical Mixer will allow you to cut and blend long-stemmed hay (large or small, round or square bales) with all other feed stuffs, making a palatable, easily digestible ration for your just-fresh cows. By starting with lots of hay in the mix, then gradually reducing the hay until they are on full feed, you will get them to peak production faster, and improve your bottom line.

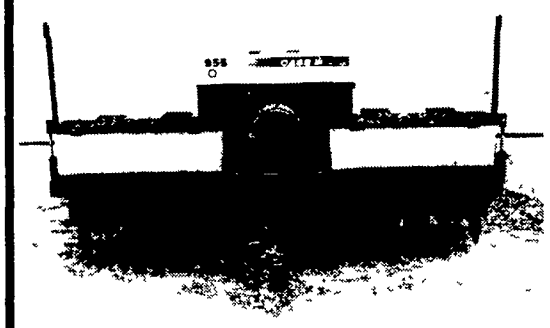
CASE IH 955 Cyclo Planters



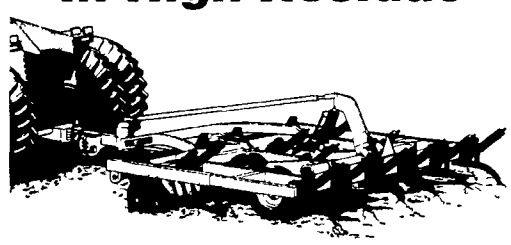
A seed needs six things from a planter to grow and thrive...six factors which produce a precision-controlled environment.

And only a Case International 950 Early Riser Planter, with its exclusive Cyclo® Air System, pays close attention to all six:

(1) Planted to the moisture level;
(2) Uniform depth;
(3) Evenly spaced;
(4) Good seed-to-soil contact;
(5) Uniform soil pressure; and
(6) Accurate population.

You'll get this performance whether you're planting in no-till, mulch-till or clean-till situations.

High Performance In High Residue



Case IH 6650 Conser-Till® Plow

A premium performer built tough for fast, smooth operation in heavy residue.

- Six-by-four inch heavy-duty mainframe strong enough to handle high operating speeds of high horsepower tractors increases your productivity.
- Massive rock shaft provides the muscle to take on an extra heavy workload.
- High-efficiency, four-rank frame to ensure free-flowing crop residue.
- Standard hydraulic disk coulters for on-the-go adjustment to varying field conditions
- Standard auto reset shanks for more confident operation in unfavorable soil conditions.
- Four sizes available from seven to thirteen shanks.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations. We save 1½ - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow.

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprise Holsteins – Horicon, Wisconsin

We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking. Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day. Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour.

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms – Navan, Ontario, Canada

We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 milking. We owned a 4 auger mixer before. Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration.

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers – Newbury, Pennsylvania

We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head. Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned. Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two thirds.

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms – Valders, Wisconsin

The 3000 Series KNIGHT Reel Auggie® is available in tow, truck, and stationary models.

Mixing capacities from 147-600 cubic feet.

On The Mark, Get Set, Grow!

The 6100 Series Rigid And Vertical Fold Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement. And that's exactly what you'll get with the White 6100 Series planters. Our pull-type planters feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed. Its low air pressure, edge-drop seed discs and short, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination.

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.

Our 4, 6, 8 and 12 row planters have the flexibility to meet most tillage practices both now and in the future. They're built rugged with a massive 7" x 7" frame and strong, welded-tongue design to handle the demands of heavy residue. Add a 6900 splitter attachment for interplant capability.

This season get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best. Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today

CLAAS® Country
Meeting all your harvesting needs!

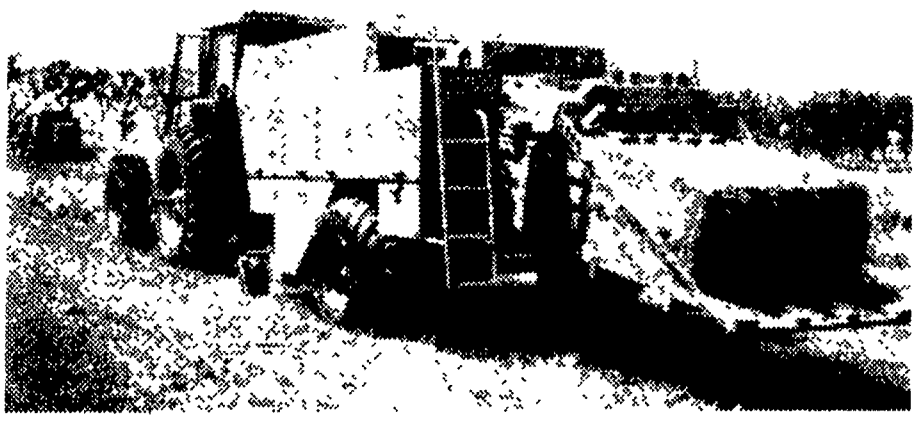
The CLAAS® Quadrant 1200 square baler—The new standard equipment for commercial operators



CLAAS doesn't have to sell a commercial operator on the advantages he gets from large, densely-packed square bales

Yes, the Quadrant 1200 delivers the density commercial operators want Yes, its bales inhibit spoilage by keeping the air out Yes, they preserve quality because they minimize nutrient loss.

The 1200 also offers the high production capacities you demand Its 4 ft x 2-1/4 ft x up to 8 ft long bales effectively increase storage space and dramatically increase transport capacities—all at a high productivity rate. And you know what this means to your bottom line.

The Quadrant makes easy work of dry hay, haylage and silage crops—whatever you've got And it bales as much of it as you've got.

CLAAS's shaft-driven knotters have earned a worldwide reputation for reliability and low maintenance Other notable features are its 3-stage pre-chamber, 78" wide pickup, powerful transmission, heavy-duty worm gear, 1000rpm pto, hydraulic density control, capacity for up to 24 balls of sisal or plastic twine, and of course 6 dependable CLAAS shaft-driven knotters.

Production capacity. Convenient handling and storage. Economical transport Density and quality. A better bottom line

For more information about the Quadrant and how it can meet your commercial needs, contact the CLAAS dealer listed below

Incidently, CLAAS quality is also available in a smaller Quadrant model designed for dairy operators

Beekeeper's Course May 8, 15

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The 12th annual edition of the Capitol Area Beekeepers Association's popular two-day short course in basic beekeeping will be presented May 8 and May 15.

The May 8 portion of the course will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center in Dauphin and the May 15 portion will be held from noon to 4:30 p.m. at the Milton Hershey Farm Conference Center and Apiary in Hershey. This course is sponsored by the association in cooperation with Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Course faculty includes cooperative extension apiculturist Maryann Frazier, chief state apiary inspector Jim Steinhauer, Penn State honeybee research scientist Jennifer Finley, regional apiary inspector Tracy Helton, and several experienced and qualified members of the association. Each registered attendee will receive a packet of beginning beekeeping information and other course-related handouts.

Hiving a package of bees and the opportunity to get hands-on experience in an operating apiary will be two of several highlights of the course. Topics include beeology; diseases, parasites, and pests; equipment; hive management; harvesting and marketing; by-products of the hive, colony inspection, and colony observation. Table displays of beekeeping equipment, books and periodicals, and other beekeeping topics will be offered. A random drawing will award the hived package of bees and hive to a lucky beginning beekeeper. Refreshment breaks will feature homemade foods made with honey.

The course is planned, organized, and presented by the members of the association to strengthen the association's mission of fostering and preserving the science and art of beekeeping. This course will assist new beekeepers in getting started, as well as provide the latest information to current beekeepers. Many experienced beekeepers will be attending to assist in responding to questions and concerns. A certificate of completion will be awarded to each new beekeeper completing the course.

Preregistration is requested before Wednesday, May 5, and the course fee is $25 per person. Attendees are encouraged to bring a bee veil and protective suit, if possible. A brown bag lunch is suggested, although, fast-food restaurants are located nearby. For a registration form, location maps, and lodging information, contact Maria Contino, secretary, 6087 Rockland Drive, Harrisburg, PA 17112, (717) 657-3932.

Agway Announces Valuable New Service: Futures Trading

DEWITT, N.Y. — Agway Futures Trading (AFT), a new service just launched by the Northeast's largest agricultural cooperative, now allows farmers to better control profitability in crop and milk production, and the buying of feed. The undertaking recently gained CFTC approval to do business on all futures exchange markets.

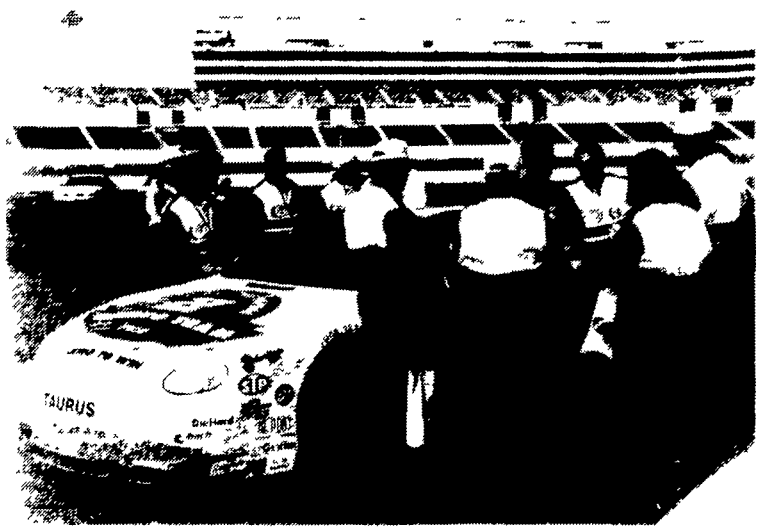
By using futures trading to their advantage, agribusiness owners can successfully hedge against volatile prices, bad weather, poor growing seasons, and other variables which threatten their livelyhood.

Futures trading offers an opportunity to combat market volatility by locking in a set price for the sale of their commodities or the purchase of their supplies. This gives them better control of certain costs and makes it possible to more accurately forecast results.

"American farmers are among the most productive in the world," said AFT President Richardson B. Smith. "They are experts in the art of producing crops and milk, and at AFT we'd like to help them to become just as proficient with the marketing of their production and the buying of their feed."

The new company employs a staff of highly trained, knowledgeable futures trading advisers. AFT, an owned subsidiary of Agway Inc., is unique in its ability to combine knowledge of the futures markets with knowledge of available marketing alternatives.

"Unlike many brokerage firms whose employees are paid on commission and must constantly push their customers to make trades, our approach will emphasize what is best for the customer, not the broker," said Smith.



To create excitement among 1,200 of its parts dealers, New Holland North America held its fall dealer meeting at the Las Vegas Motor Speedway. Dealers experienced hands-on product training and attended marketing and merchandising seminars.

New Holland Trains Dealers In Unique Way

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Breaking tradition, Peter Bond, the parts business unit manager for New Holland North America, moved the company's 1998 fall dealer meeting from a hotel conference room to the fast-lane.

More than 1,200 New Holland North American parts dealers participated in the two-day meeting, which was held for five separate groups over a 10-day period at the newly built Las Vegas Motor Speedway in Nevada.

The infield suites at the track were converted into small classrooms where dealers attended hands-on product training seminars. The media center was used for the hospitality center. And the garage that generally hums with busy stock car teams on race day became a full-scale New Holland parts store, where the dealers learned the latest in marketing and merchandising techniques.

"We knew that holding the annual meeting at the racetrack would generate excitement among the dealers," Bond said. "But what's really pleased us is how the dealers took the experience and enthusiasm home with them. The result of any dealer meeting should be improved knowledge and service, and that's definitely what we're seeing."

In the weeks after the meeting, New Holland field personnel throughout North America reported that many dealers were implementing the marketing skills they learned in Las Vegas. "Obviously, that's our goal," he said. "It's been especially gratifying to hear the dealers tell us they're motivated because of how we put this meeting on — at the racetrack."

Martin Retires From ENB's Board

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Leon Z. Martin recently retired from the board of directors of The Ephrata National Bank after serving more than 14 years.

Martin is president of Martin Paving, Inc. Brickerville, a company he founded in 1974.

Martin serves as chairman of the board of Lighthouse Rehab, Blue Ball, and is a board member of Woodcrest Retreat, Ephrata, as well as Day Seven Ministries, Elizabethtown.

To commemorate Martin's retirement from the bank's board of directors, fellow directors and spouses held a retirement dinner for him and his wife at the Olde Lincoln House, Ephrata, Jan. 28.

Ephrata National Bank has announced that Robert J. Hamilton IV will replace Martin on its board of directors. Hamilton, born in Lancaster and raised in Akron, is the son of Grace (Hess) Hamilton of Akron and the late Robert J. Hamilton, III, who formerly served on Ephrata National's board of directors.

Hamilton is president of Hamilton Equipment, Inc., an agricultural machinery distribution company based in Ephrata and founded by his father in 1938. Hamilton is also president of Hamilton Distribution, Inc., a paint distribution company based in Leola.

Herbicide Thwarts Canada Thistle

FELTON (York Co.) — In Pennsylvania, the issue is not whether you have Canada thistle, it's how much Canada thistle you have. But a newly registered, post-emergence corn herbicide takes down Canada thistle as well as tackles triazine-resistant lambsquarters, pigweed, and other tough annual and perennial broadleaf weeds.

"Distinct® herbicide, which is a reduced risk pesticide, is the first product from a new class of chemistry known as semicarbazones," said BASF Corporation agronomist Bill O'Neal. "The active ingredient, difulfenzopyr, is the first new mode of action available to corn growers in nearly a decade."

Diflufenzopyr is unique because it works much more quickly than the modes of action currently available to corn growers, O'neal explains. Unlike other herbicides, when Distinct is sprayed it immediately begins to restrict hormone movement in the plant. Since the hormones cannot be transported throughout the weed for development, they accumulate at the growth points of the weed. The weed essentially overdoses on hormones and dies.

Felton corn grower Bill Rinas witnessed the quick performance of Distinct last summer. "We saw a fast take-down of Canada thistle and slower grass control that seemed to keep new seedlings from coming up," said Rinas, who had an Experimental Use Permit (EUP) plot on his farm during the 1998 season. "We also dug up roots in the fall and there was no regrowth."

"Distinct looked very good," he continues. "I was impressed with the control of Canada thistle and all of the other broadleaf weeds present, including lambsquarters, pigweed and velvetleaf. We also saw some residual control of grasses."

Herbistatic grass control, or grass suppressions, in addition to broad-spectrum, broadleaf weed control, are not the only advantage Distinct offers Pennsylvania corn growers. "Distinct is not prone to resistance," said BASF Field Biologist Gar Thomas, Chesapeake City, Md. "Distinct is effective across all tillage types, from no-till to conventional tillage, which is a nice fit for Pennsylvania, and Distinct has no rotation restrictions or carryover concerns to following year crops."

That is important for corn growers like Rinas who also raise soybeans, wheat, barley and some sorghum. "We did not have any drift problems," said Rinas, who sprayed the EUP plot on his farm himself. "Distinct was easy to mix. The sprayer was easy to clean out, and there was no residue."

Rinas first applied Bicep®, Prowl® and Gramoxone® as a preemergence treatment over his entire EUP plot. For postemergence control, he sprayed half of the plot with 6 ounces per acre of Distinct and the other half with a tank mix of Beacon® and Banvel® herbicide. "Side by side, the control Distinct provided was very impressive," he said.

BASF Sales Representative Ted Huhn, Elkton, Md., agrees. "Distinct controls everything better than the Beacon/Banvel combination," he said. "Beacon/Banvel only suppresses Canada thistle, where Distinct has very good activity on it."

Distinct can be paired with other preemergence herbicides or a postemergence grass herbicide for a total weed control program. Huhn typically recommends growers use Guardsman® herbicide as a preemergence treatment to keep weeds from getting too big before Distinct is applied as a postemergence treatment.

"The best application time for Distinct is when corn is small (4-10 inches)," he said. "Distinct provides excellent knockdown and in-season residual control through crop canopy."

Farmers, Ranchers To Gather In Capitol To Push For Farm Relief

WASHINGTON, D.C. — With a bleak outlook expected for the farm economy again in 1999, approximately 150 National Farmers Union (NFU) members from around the country will gather in Washington D.C to press for relief from Congress

NFU's spring fly-in, March 21-24, comes on the heels of forecasts by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) that net farm income for 1999 is expected to drop 7 percent from 1998 levels. Many commodity prices are forecast to stay low and exports may drop into their lowest level in four years

"Farmers Union will send a clear message to Congress that action is urgently needed to address low prices and other factors contributing to poor market conditions," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "Many producers will be unable to sustain another sharp cut in income Our members will bring their personal stories to members of Congress to ensure we get positive results"

Fly-in participants will encourage lawmakers to adopt measures to strengthen the farm safety net and address concentration in agricultural markets. Participants also will discuss upcoming trade issues, including trade adjustment assistance legislation, which would compensate producers hurt by unfair trade practices

NFU members are scheduled to visit with key members of Congress, as well as with officials from USDA and the administration

Last fall, NFU played an instrumental role in winning passage of the $7 billion farm relief package approved by Congress NFU brought more that 200 producers to Washington in September who met with members of Congress to press for meaningful assistance

SPECIALIZING IN PRE-ENGINEERED STEEL BUILDINGS SINCE 1990

Founded in 1990 and incorporated in 1992, A S HOOVER, INC has grown rapidly for good reasons The corporation has been recognized in two recent issues of a national industry news magazine

WHY A.S. HOOVER, INC. FOR STEEL BUILDINGS?

A. SAFETY! Emphasis on strength, NO BUILDING FROM A.S. HOOVER HAS EVER COLLAPSED!

B. QUALITY AND DESIGN. In addition to commercial, agricultural, and industrial applications including cranes, buildings from HOOVER have met the strict criteria of the National, State, and Township Governments, the School District, and the Philadelphia Airport

C. PRICE! With the most of buildings coming from the lower cost South, and hauled on backhaul, plus a high volume combined with low handling overhead, HOOVER is a leader in cost per ton of steel on the jobsite

D. RELIABILITY! CECO Building Systems originally Mitchell Buildings is one of the oldest and largest metal building firms The record of Pennsylvania German builders speaks for itself

In short, A S Hoover, Inc brings to the customer via the smaller Plain people contractors, the benefits of a larger organization while maintaining the frugality for which they are noted With concentration on efficiency and workmanship, alcohol, profanity, and blaring radios are not permitted on the job

In addition to the volume with CECO, Dealerships are also held with KIRBY (spans to 40 on 12 purlins) and CORLE (galvanized girt and purlin systems) giving unsurpassed coverage of all applications
